As we begin preparations for summer 2017, which will be a special one as we celebrate Camp Robin Hood's 90th summer, we want to first reflect on what a wonderful summer 2016 was.

Camp Directors believe great weather is the key ingredient to a spectacular summer; Robin Hood definitely had mother nature on our side for summer 2016.

With over 160 summers of combined Realm experience, our GLs led the way to a fun filled summer. New Program Director Emily Rempell made sure every group enjoyed each day. Regular sunshine and hot summer temperatures made our beautiful waterfront the place to be, especially with our new Senior Camp Waterpark which was a huge hit.

Our campers were on the move, taking in all that New England summer has to offer. Multiple hiking trips went out daily and we had a Robin Hood record four Mount Washington hikes this summer.

Beach Day at Ogunquit was picture perfect. It is truly a special time when all of camp can spend the day together. Excursions made for great fun and memories, including the Saxons taking in a Red Sox game at historic Fenway Park and the Scribes enjoying a Gwen Stefani concert. When the final van rolled in from the last excursion, camp knew Green & White couldn't be far and away. Dick and Chuck led a break that included a plane, an ATV, a fire truck and of course, Judges. Following the break was five days of some of the most spirited competition we have seen in many summers.

As everyone transitions back to home life and school, we know camp is never far away, as campers communicate on a daily (and sometimes hourly) basis. It has been said 'there are no friends like camp friends'; that is especially true at Robin Hood.

We are working hard to make Robin Hood's 90th summer the best one ever. For 89 years, children have come to Robin Hood to enjoy a New England summer and escape the pressures of everyday life. As much as things have changed over 90 years, the mission of Robin Hood has not.

Speaking of things not changing, Chuck will see you at the Gas Pump on Friday, June 23rd.

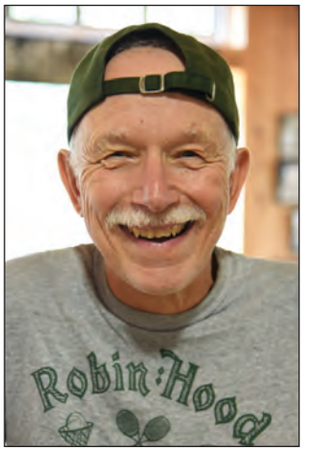

With warmest greetings from The Realm,

DC & Woody

TINKERS/PAGERS/JUGGLERS

TPJs TPJs...It's time to put away those magic cards, stop solving your Rubik's cubes, drop the walking sticks and settle down as we recount the amazing summer of the 2016 TPJs.

Remember the first night? After over 24 hours of waiting for Brett, John, and Dylan, 17 more TPJs have finally arrived to make it an even 20. First EA is…GAGA!! Don't forget your running shoes. Does anyone know the secret passcode?

The next day everyone crushes their 16 laps. Caleb lives on the tower. We had the staff talent show later that night and Ngoni showed off his sick dance moves. The camper talent show is a few days later. John shows us his awesome interpretive dancing, Brody hits the Stormtroopers rap, Beni throws it back to the Gangnam style, and Cal wows everyone with his singing and geography skills.

Remember getting your Saxon buddies? Standing up in front of all of boys camp and talking is no easy feat, I'm so proud of all of you for doing that. Earlier that day, we hiked Green Mountain with the Saxons. Weiss lectures about the fergendergen and the shplean. Colton and Archer find Circus at the top and he becomes an honorary 21st TPJ for about 5 minutes. The view from the tower was nice. Did we actually lose to the Tumblers? Controversy reigns supreme. It's okay – we still got Cozy anyway!

Remember John's nosebleed at the waterfront? Freddy is still Freddy with his PoT. Marcello saves Brett's life from a bug? Blake, Jackson, and Devon catch a fish with Srupp. Brody uses a lot of bug spray during the Wizard of Oz after some guests rudely interrupt us.

Remember Camper Hunt? Blake and Noah are the only two winners in the first round. Mikey tries to trick the counselors, but the number of winners quadruples in the second round. Remember the Scavenger Hunt? WHERE IS THE GOLDEN APPLE?!! Remember West End? The 15U may not have won, but the 10U team did great. Jackson and Noah scored some nice goals and we win the softball game. Remember the Lainey Segel Lipsync Challenge? Team Palmer forgets clothes while Team Ngoni of Andrew, Devon, Marcello, and Mikey take home first place. Remember the BEACH PARTY for Bryce's birthday followed by a trip to Pizza Barn and Cozy as well?

Remember starting chants at breakfast? Beni and Beck get banned from remember whens. Remember kickball? Weiss gets a triple play but Brody kicks a grand slam to counter it. Aidan slides into every base in his first activity of the summer. Remember when Cal lost the bet to Podl and had to tell a joke every morning?

Remember when we challenged the Squires to bombardment? After losing the first game, we made a comeback for the ages to shock the world and win the challenge. Luka and Antoine arrive earlier that day to bring just enough firepower to the team. Colton follows in Mikey's footsteps with amazing bombardment skills.

Remember the 4th of July? In the morning we played gaga and newcomb with the Squires and Archers, and Beni runs 15 laps. Water balloon fights, ice cream, and slip n' sliding at the fair. You guys hit every booth and then we won the raffle! We got not one but two meals in a row at the Saxon table, leading all of boys camp. After the fair we go to the beach for the BEACH PARTY led by DJ Flash and co. Dinner is awesome but everyone eats too much and powdered sugar from fried dough is all over our clothes. We closed out the day with an all boys camp counselor hunt. What a day!

Remember when…Dylan was not in a photo? Beck stayed on his feet during gaga? Archer's area was messy? Ty was on time to benches? Adam wasn't playing a sport? Aidan wasn't playing with sticks? Bruno wasn't talking football? WE DON'T!

Remember when Brett fell in the water after tubing? Mikey and Beni got so much air and Noah stood up on the tube. Remember when Bryce ate a penguin? Caleb, Cal, Bryce, and Devon open the TPJ aquarium in the bathroom. Remember the pajama jump surprise? Cal, Andrew, Bryce and Noah had a cracker cheese-eating contest. Remember gladiator ball? Beck had a rough night but it was a great EA. For Jackson's birthday we have an all-camp social and Blake wins a tank top. Antoine renames Cal "Squeaky" in honor of his sunscreen.

Remember BEACH DAY?!? Marcello eats so many dipping dogs…Andrew and Bryce get ice cream all over themselves except for in their mouths…Freddy swims with Chuck and his awesome sunglasses…Luka and Antoine surf the waves…Brett reclassifies all of the food groups…The water is lukewarm…Unfortunately Marcello cannot buy the kite that would "bring his family closer together." Thankfully the rain holds off just long enough but we get back to camp and everyone is worried about our bunk flooding.

Remember the Carpetball Tournament? After finishing in last place in qualifying, the Brett, Beck, and John AKA the Pink Boys take home the championship. Remember the Poo Concert with Poo and Pooch? Remember when…Brett wore all of Rybo's clothes, hence the name Ryvo …Quentin and Cal throw their Sugar Daddys on the roof? Teru arrives and after taking a nap on the beach, he is ready to rumble.

TPJs

Remember Lazy Sunday followed by an all-junior boys camp Gold Rush? The Songbirds take down the Pandas in an all out affair. Remember when…You all waited for hours before lazy breakfast…Cal, Noah, and Bryce are food thieves, Luka takes a plate full of olives…Antoine does not lose at Carpetball…Blake draws Chaos in the crafts drawing contest…Quentin gets up first time on waterski…We go to the outpost but the thunder stops Weiss mid marshmallow roasting…Marcello gives Weiss a makeover?

Remember watching Top Gun on the quad? Dan comes for Robin Hood gives back and we do yoga on the quad with him. After lunch the TPJs challenge him to a riflery shootout. Later that night we challenge the Bows and after a hard fought battle we lose for the first challenge all year. Ducks by the Sea is invented, which becomes a classic game. Jackson sees a lot of Weiss.

Remember the mini Green & White? Warsh breaks the war with the air horns. Jonas and Palmer are captains of the White Alpha Wolves while Weiss, Warsh, and Ngoni are captains of the Green Cactus. After an intense day full of Danish, gaga, the craziest bocce game ever, cracker eating, Carpetball, spelling bee, sandcastle building, and flag making, it all comes down to song night. Ultimately, the White Alpha Wolves edged out the Green Cactus 120-117.

Remember Parents Visiting Day? You guys did such an amazing job in the talent show. I really enjoyed meeting all of your parents and seeing where you all come from. After an incredibly hot morning, the rain comes just in time for last period. It doesn't stop Andrew, Bryce, and Cal from rolling and jumping around in the mud in just underwear in front of all the parents. Your parents are so proud of you! After the parents leave, Marcello can't stop serenading the group with his "Cherry Baby" rendition of "Sherry Baby." Kick the can is a hit and Andrew ends the final game after Palmer tried to use a paddleboard to hide behind. We say goodbye to the four weekers, hello to Ty and Hiker, and nice to see you again to Adam.

Remember when…Bryce and Beck do the Moose…Woody puts Andrew in charge of welcoming the newcomers…John and Bryce fight for Beck #2…Beck Makes snow angels in the gaga pit…Freddy and Jackson have a very interesting pajama jump, but Cal and Robert out do them by just a bit… Jackson runs into the basketball hoop and grows an incredibly large bump on his head…We beat the Tumblers in gaga again thanks to Teru…Then we challenge the Scribes and beat them so badly that they run away.

Remember excursion? The trip started off right with a stop at Storyland. Ty and John ride all of intense rides. Freddy and Hiker spend all of their money on candy within the first two hours. After a great day at Storyland, we head back to the campsite where Yensi whips us up a FUEGO dinner. Then it's off to see Secret Life of Pets. Teru laughs at the saddest part. We head back to the campsite for s'mores and stories before we head to bed. Day 2 arrives and so do Rybo, Lomedico and Shafer. After a great breakfast we pack the tents and head to Cranmore. What a great day of alpine sliding, adventure rides, and high ropes. Finally, we head back to camp after an action-packed two days. But wait, surprise! We have a new camper! Hi Will!

Green & White hype starts to build. We dominate Founder's night with the largest chair in CRH history. Tyler shows up at a perfect time. So much for saving the best for last! After a great night of gifts and celebration, Green & White breaks…just kidding it's only the Saxons and Scribes faking us out. The next day in the middle of frolf, it's a bird, it's a plane, it's Green & White!!! A fire truck, police car, and ATV accompany the plane and the judges throw confetti at everyone in the barn. Day 0 begins! Congratulations to Bryce and Cal for being captains and Blake and Jackson for being co captains. Congratulations to all of you guys for fighting hard and giving it your all in every activity, even if it was not your favorite. I saw so much good sportsmanship and effort and I am so proud of each and every one of you. After a super intense, close war, Paranormal Green ends up on top after an unbelievable song night. It's all over! We get to sleep in the next day and then Dunkin' Donuts greets us in the morning at breakfast. What a week!

As we get back into the swing of things, AD All Day joins us. We play Hunger Games and Freddy ends up throwing up right outside the office. Bryce and Blake kill the zucchini. We sing the Green & White songs at meals. Tyler crushes everyone at carpetball. It's time for GL swap day and luckily we get the one and only LC Lauren Cole.

Adam – I am so happy that you came back for the last 3 weeks. There was a certain energy missing in the two weeks you missed and we were so glad to have you back. Green & White is the perfect thing for you, and you are also so caring and willing to help out the rest of the group.

Aidan – Your energy is unmatched. It is a shame that you were a bit sick for most of your stay, but I always enjoyed talking to you and spending time with you. You always knew what to say and you have a really intelligent, clever way of expressing yourself. See you next summer.

Andrew – You are one funny kid. I'm so glad that you decided to stay for seven weeks because you got to be here for the best parts of camp. You made a lot of friends and were a really important part of the group. Keep coming back because camp needs you and you need camp.

Antoine – It is so hard to go to a different country at such a young age, but you killed it. As the days went by you talked more and more and I always loved to hear your input. You are also the best carpetball player I have ever seen. I hope to see you in The Realm again.

Archer – You entered The Realm as a very shy, quiet kid who was a bit homesick. Sure enough, just a few days later, you could not stop smiling. You are an important part of the group. Keep coming back because you definitely understand camp.

Beni – You are one of the funniest kids I've ever met. You are very curious and you brought a lot to the group this summer. I enjoyed watching your growth throughout the summer and I hope you are back next summer for more than two weeks.

Blake – You emerged as more of a leader of the group this year. It was so cool to see how much you matured over the past two years. You always play your hardest and try to include everyone. Camp is a great place for you and you are a great person for camp.

Brett – Ryvo! You got a leg up on most of the group by coming a day early and you killed every second of your stay. It's hard to be the youngest kid in the group, but you really embraced your role and I loved watching you try your best at every activity.

Brody – You have so much energy. From the moment you stepped off the bus you were so active and engaged at every activity. Your hairstyle was a big hit at camp. I hope you keep coming back and hopefully next summer you can stay for more than two weeks.

Bruno – When I found out you were Beck's friend from school, I was a bit nervous. However, you definitely branched out and made new friends while maintaining your previous friendship, which I thought was awesome. You always tried your best and put yourself out there during every activity.

Bryce – You are a leader of the group. I don't think you understand how much other kids in the group look up to you, respect you, and try to emulate you. You are so goofy, but you know when it is time to compete. I can't wait to see you next summer.

Caleb – In the beginning, I was waiting for you to come out of your shell. As time went on, you became much more confident and outgoing and we all got to see how funny you are. You and Warsh crushed it in the back room once everyone left. I hope to see you next summer!

Callum – You bring so much joy and laughter into everyone's day every single day. Even when you are not listening, it is very hard to be mad at you because you are just so happy to be here. You are a leader of the group and I hope that you continue to grow into that role.

Colton – You have so much energy, which is awesome. You always are doing things to the best of your ability. Also, I've never seen an 8 year old with so much swagger in their outfits. Every single day you matched perfectly. I hope to see you back at camp next summer for more than two weeks.

TPJs

Devon – You're the man. You were always willing to help out and you knew when people were not doing the right thing and you weren't afraid to say something. Not to mention you are a great athlete. It's hard to stay 7 weeks your first summer but you were awesome. See you next year.

Dylan – Since you came a few days early, you were more than willing to always help out and explain games and camp to new campers. I really appreciated that because it made my job so much easier. Hopefully you can come back next year and continue to lead.

Freddy – You love camp as much as anyone I know. You try your best even in activities which you don't like and aren't necessarily the best at. You simply get it, which is so impressive for someone so young. You were the guy I went to when I needed people to explain things to new campers. I know you will come back for many years.

Hiker – I know coming for the last two weeks is nerve-wracking, but from the first activity, you clearly were a huge part of the group. You fit right in and made friends quickly. You are unique and I love that about you. I hope to see you next summer!

Jackson – You are an energy bunny. You literally never stop moving at 110% and you put your all into every activity. You are a competitor, but you also know when to step back and be a good friend. I can't wait to see you continue to grow and become more of a leader.

John – I am so glad you ended up extending from two to four weeks and then from four to seven. You are so funny and camp is the perfect place for you to be your true hilarious self. I hope you continue to come back because you are an important part of this group.

Luka – For someone who lives halfway across the world, your enthusiasm was remarkable. From the first day, you were so outgoing and willing to put yourself out there. Your English improved every day and I am so proud of you for that.

Marcello – Marshmallow! Looking back at it, I would have never guessed that you were homesick the first couple nights. You are so goofy and you could always make the entire group laugh at any time. Keep being you because you are so awesome. You made camp a better place.

Mikey – First off, go Cavs! I loved how you always had a smile on your face, no matter what time of day it was or what activity we were doing. You grew accustomed to camp so quickly, and it's a shame you couldn't stay more than two weeks. Keep coming back.

Noah – You are so camp. You knew a lot about camp even though it was your first year and I almost forgot that you had not been here before. Keep coming back and becoming the leader that I know you will be in the future.

Quentin – You are the man. You were always so calm and collected. You knew exactly when to be goofy and exactly when to be helpful and I really appreciated that. It's a shame you were only here for two weeks because you were a great part of the group.

Robert – You are so awesome. You not only matured a lot over the year, but your roll in the group also grew so much. You are a tough kid, but you are also downright hilarious. I cannot wait to see you for five days every year for the next several years and watch you grow into the person I know you'll become.

Teru – You are such a funny kid. It is so hard to travel halfway around the world to a country where you don't know much of the language all by yourself. However, your easygoing personality makes this so much easier and you make all of our days better and funnier. Please come back.

Ty – From the moment you arrived, it seemed like you had been at camp for years. You knew so much about camp before you ever arrived, and you clearly have a large passion for camp. You came for the best part of camp, and you crushed excursion. Looking forward to seeing you next year.

Tyler – I was worried when you arrived less than 24 hours before Green & White broke. However, you stepped right in and absolutely dominated the war and found a place in the group right away. I was so impressed with your maturity and I hope to see you next summer.

Will – Unfortunately I missed your arrival, but I got to meet you a day or two later. You never ceased to make me laugh. You are hilarious and you care so much about everything you do. Keep that drive, as it will make you successful. Hope to see you next year.

To my staff – Thank you for always being there for me. Some days were a lot tougher than others, and each and every one of you always stepped up when you were needed. I could not have made it through the summer without you guys. I enjoyed watching you all compete in Green & White, and I hope you can all come back next summer.

Boys, I could not think of a better group of kids to spend my last summer with at my favorite place in the world. Each and every one of you made this summer so special, and you improved my life and taught me things I never knew. I hope you all keep coming back for as long as possible so you can truly realize how special this place is. To my crew: I love you guys, and you're the reason I came back this summer.

SQUIRES ASSEMBLE...

Squires sound off, "Ahooo, ahooo, ahooo!" I can't hear you! "Ahoo, ahoo, ahoo!"…We are the Squires! We are the Squires! Put your Magic cards down, finish solving your Rubik's cubes, and get ready to take a trip back to the amazing Summer Sixteen.

Remember day one? Danny, Josh, and Max arrived to camp early and were eager to meet all of their new groupmates. As soon as everyone filled in throughout the day, we were at a strong 14, making us the smallest but best group in Boys Camp. Remember Max and Jesse both going on the death spin swing and walking away really dizzy? Remember our first evening activity of Bombardment and having to explain to the new kids that it was just a Robin Hood way of saying dodgeball?

Remember everyone finishing their 16 laps? Remember when Ignacio accidentally hit Beckett in the head with a kayak paddle and then everyone was flinging around the dead fish we found? Remember teaming up versus each other in canoes and having a splashing battle? Remember when we learned all of the Boys Camp cheers at our first camp fire? After that, you guys always wanted to start cheers. Remember when we were the leaders of Boys Camp in the dining hall?

Remember when AJ said, "You need to put on your sunscreen or else you will get sunburped!" Remember playing taps at the waterfront and splashing everyone that missed the ball? Remember the awesome mountain hike we did, when we had to climb 3 ladders and crawl through a cave to get to the top of the mountain? Some of us had some serious wipeouts on our way up. Finally, when we got to the top of the mountain, we saw the awesome view of Lake Squam and Lake Winnipesaukee. On the hike, we saw snakes, frogs, and even a bear. Remember when Jasper almost sat on a frog or when all the counselors told you that it was 20 more minutes to the top whenever you asked? Don't forget the compliment we received about how well behaved we were in McDonalds.

Remember when James played comic trivia with all of us and we all chose which superheroes we wanted to be called? Remember when we played an awesome carpetball tournament? Remember our first game of camper hunt that was followed by candy canteen? Remember when Josh fell backwards off the swing and was saved by his feet? Remember Beckett x 2 and Ethan A getting up on their first tries during waterski or when Sam sunk a 3 point shot during a heated game of 3 on 3? Who could forget when we went to the senior waterfront to play on the awesome inflatable toys and Beckett S and Alex dueled on the splash mat and Jasper was saying, "go back from where you came from," while pushing counselors off the toys.

Remember when we went to the outpost around the first week mark? We set up the tents ourselves, prepared all the food for our fajitas dinner, played a crazy game of SPUD before the campfire, and made absolutely delicious s'mores? Everyone made sure to get the perfect golden roasted marshmallow…or other people deciding to burn them. We closed the night by having our talk around the campfire about why camp is so special.

Remember going to West End for the playdate? There were some questionable offside calls in soccer, but we got to play in the "House" where the U15 plays every year? Remember that crazy football period with the TPJs? That was one of your favorite periods of the summer. Remember when we had gold rush for EA? No one knew what it meant so Ryan had to explain that it was just a cooler version of capture the flag. That activity ended up being so intense with everyone giving it their all down to the last second. Remember the Junior Camp talent show, when Jasper and Max both did amazing jobs with their performances? Remember when we played elimination newcomb at the sand court and you had to run to the soccer goal to get back in? Remember when we went Pizza Barn and Cozy Corner to celebrate Beckett Sobel's birthday?

Remember when we went on the boat ride and Danny got so cold that he huddled in the back of the boat with a towel? Superman a.k.a. Beckett Fox was hanging from the boom and we played a game to see who could hold their towels the longest in the crazy wind. Remember when we always played Spikeball on the beach? Remember when you guys were dominating the counselors in counselor hunt with the TPJs, we played kickball with Dick, and we declined the Quills' challenge to gaga? Who could forget when we had a squirrel in our bunk and everyone was freaking out. Remember when we saw fireworks at the waterfront for the 4th of July?

Remember having a ton of fun celebrating the 4th of July? We played newcomb with the TPJs and Archers and got called out for not dancing to the music. Remember the 4th of July carnival, when almost everyone ended up with whipped cream all over their faces? We got awesome American flag face paint and Danny put all of his Cry Baby ice cream in his mouth at once. Remember when Chuck, Dick, and Woody all went down the giant waterslide? We got into a water balloon fight at the bottom of the quad but none of the balloons would pop! Then at the beach party, we made a huge sand castle. Remember having the amazing dinner and eating way too much fried dough? We won Dunkin' Donuts from the raffle contest!

Remember when we played all camp counselor hunt? That was crazy! Remember our first last Sunday, when we all got to sit at the Saxon table, when Jackson messed up and our laundry was not done for 2 days because it was dirty? Remember when some of us went to the U10 basketball tournament at Winaukee? We met Coach W. and we came in 6th place in the Lakes Region. Remember when we beat the Shires in gaga and Ethan S. got the last out? And then we beat the Jesters in gaga, 3-0? Remember when Owen was doing funny dances during our dance practice? Superman (Beckett F) vs. Captain American (Owen) on the splash mat. Remember when we went to the Mainers' game and had a blast? Jesse got the last bag of cowtails!

SQUIRES

Remember when we played infection and you guys went crazy? Ignacio and James were hiding in the middle of the quad and no one caught them. Remember when Max sang at dinner for meal time entertainment and the whole camp went crazy? Remember when Dick told us the Tommy story about how much camp has changed?

Remember "So You Think You Can Dance," when we killed our dance to the song "Alexander Hamilton?" Remember when we were playing basketball around at the bunk and Jesse chipped his tooth when he ran into someone? Remember when we played scavenger hunt, and one group thought that our staff had only been at camp for 2 years, when we got banana splits at dinner and you guys all had chocolate syrup on their face? Remember when we had a ton of fun at the Pepsi Co 3 vs. 3 tournament in the barn because of the rain and then we played Apples to Apples in the bunk and you guys all thought you were going to win, but the counselors won the majority of time. Remember when Caleb, Beckett F, and Alex all when fishing with Steve and Beckett F caught a fish that peed on Alex?

Remember when we went tuuuuuuubing for evening activity, and Alex's facial expressions as he went tubing were constantly changing? Remember when we on a canoe trip with Woody Jr. to the marina and having to try to complete the 3 challenges? You guys sunk a canoe for 30 seconds using rocks to make sure it stayed under water? Remember when we finally challenged the kitchen staff to play gaga and we won! That was an awesome challenge. Remember when we made superheroes in drama, one of our favorite activities. Remember when Josh got his tooth stuck on a Sugar Daddy? Remember when Ethan made Alex laugh so hard that he started choking? Remember when we watched people fall off of the tubes and seeing their short seconds in the air before they would hit the water? Remember our awesome junior camp social in the barn with DJ Woody when everyone was really hot and sweaty?

Remember Beach Day!!! You guys all tried to go in the water for the whole time, but realized just how cold it was and only stayed in for a little. Thank you all for trying to come out to visit with the counselors while they were on lifeguard duty! Remember when Jasper attempted to go to the boardwalk without a shirt or shoes, and when Owen and Jesse bought ice cream but the ice cream had already melted all over their hands before they could eat it? You all wanted to buy Charleston Chews, but they ran out and got mad at me. We had lunch at Splash as a group. Then, Beckett and Josh tried to barter their Pringles to Jameson, but they were unable to go to the boardwalk because they were too late.

Remember when we challenged the Bards to gaga, but it ended in a tie. Remember when we had a skit night and everyone made jokes about the counselors and the daily schedule? Squires were the first group to do Badminton this summer! Remember when we played the game smart in Tennis? Remember when Beckett Fox said the capital of China is Korea? Remember when Owen got his leg caught in the soccer goal, when Jasper won kick the can in 10 seconds, and when we had a gladiator tournament on the splash mat and Josh won by accident?

Remember when we had boys campfire and learned camp songs and about color war? Remember when we played a junior camp goal rush throughout camp or playing 3 vs. 3 basketball in the Friar bunk indoor basketball court? Remember when we played puddle gaga after the rainstorm, or when we cheered on the TPJs as they ran back from the outpost? Remember when Jackson and Rybo got really bad haircuts and when Josh thought the cinnamon rolls were too doughy?

Remember Robin Hood Gives Back Day? Dan came in to speak to us and reminded us how lucky we are to go to a camp as nice as Robin Hood. He told us how he lives his life without complaining. The next day we all did yoga on the Quad while Dan instructed us. Remember when Jesse, Beckett F, Ignacio, Ethan A, and Jasper all did the island swim? For evening activity, we got to watch Top Gun on the quad with the rest of boys camp. Before that, we played make your counselors laugh, and you guys all made me, Ryan, AJ, and James laugh?

Remember when we had 4 EAs in one night; kick the can, camper hunt, infected, and a campfire? We played ducks and turtles at the waterfront and prepared for Green & White with an intense game of newcomb. Remember when we always had PBJ contests at meals and James would judge the sandwiches? Remember Parents Visiting Day? You all got to see your parents and show them around camp for the day, and then we performed our dance again for the parents and they loved it. That night we got to go pontoon boating with Dick and we went to the sandbar and played football and frisbee.

Remember when we all moved onto one side of the bunk when we shrunk down to only 5 kids? We were a small group for the rest of camp, but we had a ton of fun. Remember when Nico told us how bad it was to sleep in the infirm that first night? Remember when we played gaga with the Shires and Beckett was the last one left? Remember when we had pajama jump at the waterfront for EA? Beckett jumped in with a ton of clothes and towels and even a chair! Remember helping the TPJs paint their massive chair for Founder's Day and getting paint all over ourselves? Remember when Jasper completely flipped off the tube while he was riding with Nico, or when we played drip drip drop and it turned into a full blown water fight?

Remember when we went on excursion with Jackson and Yensi, packing tightly into a minivan. We went to the escape room and got out with only 36 seconds left on the clock. Nico was the only one that could fit in the smallest room and Ramzi killed it with all the clues and locks. Remember when you guys said your favorite part of the excursion was Walmart, jokingly of course. We went lazy tubing on the Saco river and Caleb lost his shoe, and then we went camping and Yensi cooked us great meals of steak and chicken fajitas. Remember when we saw Secret Life of Pets? The second day, we went to Fun Town Splash Town and you guys made me do all of the rides and scared me to death, but at least you all had fun. Remember when Jasper looked like he was crying on the Excalibur? Then we finally got home and welcomed Andrew into our group.

SQUIRES

Remember when Jasper broke Beckett's glasses in steal the bacon? We played a 2 on 2 basketball tournament with the Saxons and Andrew hit his buzzer beater. Beckett explained his NBA knowledge to us. Remember when we went to flagpole 20 minutes early just to be able to lower the flag? Remember Founder's Night, when we presented our project called "The Stand?" After Founder's Night we had the Saxon and Scribe Fake Break to get us excited for Green & White.

Remember the Green & White break? We were playing Bocce and then all the sudden everyone started freaking out and running to see the plane in the air with the words, "Green & White 2016!" That was one of the coolest breaks ever. You guys killed it in Green & White from the fields to the stage and everywhere in between, there was a place for you all to showcase your amazing talents. I loved watching you guys compete at the highest level. Remember when we all started dancing and singing to the Night 5 songs during the encore, and when we finally got to welcome each other back to one group and sing the good night song together?

Remember when you guys got Becca for GL swap day and she gave you ice cream? Remember when Nico ran to flagpole right when revelry went off? Remember when you guys were awful at coming up with remember when's so you came up with hypothetical remember when's? Remember the last few days of camp? As time dwindled down you guys showed how much you love this place already, and I hope that you all keep coming back for as long as you can.

Ethan Agmoni – You are the man. Although it was your first year at camp, you fit in perfectly with everyone else, made new friends quickly, and found your new home away from home. You are very athletic, and I saw just how competitive you were during the summer. You were really nice and fun to be around, and I hope that you will be able to come back next year to catch Green & White.

Danny Cohen – You are good at basically every activity we do. I loved watching you ball out at basketball. Even though you had your cousin in the group, I thought you did a great job of making new friends and branching out. I hope you decide to come back!

Ignacio Estevez – As the sole Spanish kid in the group I was nervous that you would have trouble making friends, but I was so wrong. As soon as you got here you made friends with everyone in the group. You are a very funny kid to be around, always goofing around and making jokes. I hope you have fun in Ibiza, as that is the reason you could not say for longer, but I hope you do make it for Green & White next year – I think you will love it!

Beckett Fox – You are such a funny kid, but you also know when to be serious. I think you really get camp and I'm really glad you were able to extend and stay the full time. I thought it showed how important you are to this group when you were elected captain in Green & White. You are definitely going to be a leader in this group. Keep coming back.

Alex Geldzahler – You are such a smart kid. You were always asking us these very intelligent questions that even we didn't know the answers to. Even though you did not know all the activities we did, you were eager to try them and that was awesome. With your brother giving you some background on camp, you transitioned very well, knowing more about camp than some returning campers. I hope that next year you will stay longer than 3 weeks.

Jesse Geoghan – You are a very funny kid to be around. You are always making me laugh, in addition to making yourself laugh! As a new camper, you did so well making new friends and trying new things. I think you really understand what camp means and how important it will be to you. I hope you keep coming back because this place can become so special to you.

Max Grad – You are a very, very talented kid. Your act in the junior camp talent show was amazing. I'm really glad you spent extra time working on your routine with Dick during rest hour. Besides your amazing talents on stage, you fit in very well at camp. You decided to stay at camp while you were visiting a day before opening day which was amazing. You killed it this summer, and I hope you can stay longer than two weeks next year!

Ramzi Kallini – Although you only got to come for two weeks, you developed an important role in our special group. You came in with ease and found your spot with the rest of your bunk mates. You are a very bright and intellectual kid and you always asked me really hard questions that even I didn't know the answer to. I appreciated how much you respected other bunk mates and counselors in the group and I hope that you decide to come back for longer next year.

Owen Lenox – You are a great kid. You would always help get the benches quiet while everyone was still chatting and you would always be happy with whatever activity we had planned. Whatever was happening, you always had a smile on your face. I thought your goal to wear your Syracuse bucket hat every day of the summer was hilarious. You definitely get camp and next year, you better stay for longer.

Jasper Karlson – You are a natural leader and an integral part of the group. Although you had to transition from TPJ to Squire and leave some friends behind, you did an amazing job and I can't thank you enough for being so good about it. Your knowledge and love for camp is awesome and has helped new and old campers in our group develop that same feeling. It's clear to see how much camp means to you. I hope you keep coming back to this place we call home.

Andrew Morrison – You got to come to camp at the perfect time. You are a very competitive kid and I saw that during Green & White. I also saw your superb acts of sportsmanship during the competition, which were awesome. I hope you get to catch more of the summer next year!

Caleb Newman – You are a very athletic kid. You are awesome at basketball, gaga, and bombardment. I'm glad you got to participate in Green & White this summer. I think it says a lot that you were elected captain this year and shows how you are a leader of this group. I think camp means more to you than you know and you just have to keep coming back to fully understand that.

Ethan Schindele – Although you were quiet at the beginning of camp, you slowly came out of your shell and became an energetic member of our group. I loved how competitive you were in all the activities, always trying your hardest and getting motivated. I think you would love Green & White, which is the most competitive five days of camp. I hope you are able to stay longer next year!

Sam Slesh – Coming in as a past camper, I had hoped you would be able to show the new campers the ropes and you did this very well. You definitely branched out to different activities this year, like ceramics where you were always killing it on the wheel. You were a great camper and had a lot of fun. I think next year is your year to stay the full session.

Josh Smith – Although you in Danny were sometimes inseparable, I thought you became good friends with everyone in our group. You are so good at archery, and I think it is awesome that you picked it up so quickly and were able to compete in the tournament. I hope that you and Danny both make it back for next summer, and even try to stay longer for Green & White.

Beckett Sobel – You are an amazing athlete. You were always so competitive during the day at activities, during challenges, and during inter camp play. You were always first to clean your area, sweep the bunk, brush your teeth, shower, and get quiet on the benches. That shows how respectful you are and how much you follow Dick's saying of, "Don't waste a minute." I hope that you can be back for Green & White next year because I think you will truly shine.

Nico Tucker – You are simply the man. You came to camp with the best attitude about it and that never changed. You were so easygoing and I loved that. You fit in to the group perfectly and became a leader. When we weren't playing continental during rest hour, you were running around looking for Mr. Pink. You are a great part of this group and I truly hope you keep coming back, because you only had the smallest taste of camp.

Staff – These past two months have flown by. Without you three I don't know how I could have done it. Thank you for always being there when I needed you guys. I had a great summer with all of you and we became really close and I will always remember that. I hope you all come back next year.

SQUIRES 2016 - Guys, this summer has been the best summer of my eleven years by far. Thank you so much for making it so fun and awesome. Through our many talks and campfires, I have seen both how close you guys have got and how much you get camp at such a young age. I love all of you. Keep coming back and please, don't waste a minute in this place because it means more to you than you think.

ARCHERS

Mighty mighty Archers, put away the magic cards, stop playing carpetball, and get ready to relive the summer of 2016 – THE BEST ONE YET!

Remember day 1…Tino is the first Archer to arrive around lunch, and he is joined by 15 others by dinner…Our first evening activity is kick the can, and Ben Buman gets a nice welcome to Robin Hood with a knee to the shin…A couple of us have trouble sleeping the first night – Eli falls out of his bed, and Buck wakes Podl up at 2:30 to tell him that someone moved him to Austin's bed.

The summer starts to get rolling… Remember destroying the counselors in counselor hunt? Ambushes of 10 kids at a time wiped the staff out quickly three rounds in a row. Even Austin gets involved in the hunt from the infirm porch. Remember Pierce's tragic bench injury, Eli loses his voice on day 3…Griffin dominates Newcomb with his dunks, and Oshmael Becham rules the first game of football, featuring Kreindler with a sick touchdown catch…Toby breaks Pierce's ankles on his way to a touchdown – do you even stunt bro? Fentress wins 18 games of carpetball in a row, but do you even carpetball bro?

Remember our first time at senior waterfront for evening activity? Fentress gets catapulted by Podl on the log, dueling on the mat and racing across the toys…Remember Theo's Chinese yo-yo skills? No one can put the yo-yo down when it's time for benches though…Buck dominates street hockey in the rink, Chase gets 3 paddy wagons in spud. Tino's first chicken kiev explodes on him, and Nate squirts his everywhere. Kreindler's voice cracks every time he says "actually," and Jack Olsher uses deodorant for the first time.

Remember the mountain trip? Good times… Most of us were in it for the McDonald's at the end. A few twisted ankles later, we made it down Dickey safely. Tyler finds out that Podl is his grandmother…We welcome Nirvaan to the group and he kills it in his first activity, the first time he has ever played softball. Lips and Eli, Jack Olsher, and Tino and Buck all represent the group in the first talent show.

Remember beating the Bows in bombardment? Jack Olsher comes up clutch with the last out. Remember the disgusting cocoa butter lotion and the countless number of Axe bombs…Pierce uses three bottles of sunscreen in the first 10 days. Remember the fire alarm? That was such a soothing sound to wake up to every morning, especially after hearing Austin's shcary shtories the night before.

Remember the Fourth of July? Phil was the star of the softball team, somehow making every play at first base despite the adversity he faced. Toby and Kreindler make back to back outstanding diving catches and Griffin turns a sweet double play. Back at camp the carnival and dinner were both awesome, featuring Phil's pie eating contest and the fivesome marriage between Kreindler, Nirvaan, Theo, Nate, and Pierce.

Remember how we always got tubing? Everyone had their moment, whether it was getting chalked, flying high in the air, or even losing their suit (Toby). Remember capture the flag against the Yeomen? Griffin plowed his way through the opposition, and while we didn't wind up victorious, everyone is still a winner at Camp Robin Hood. Remember making up new office games? Pierce can never jump over the swinging tetherball without getting chalked and croquey is a huge hit.

Remember the Mainers game? Go baseball! We are fans of the game. Eli starts the trend by getting his dirty plate signed by players and others soon follow in his footsteps… Remember gold rush, our last evening activity for the 2 weekers? Eli breaks Toby's ankles, but more importantly, Jack Olsher exposes Fatima to the group. The next morning Tino, Nirvaan, and Podl complete the island swim. Unfortunately Nirvaan forgot to bring his towel in the freezing weather. We are sad to see Griffin and Ben leave, but that night we completely owned our dance in the talent show. The next day the group takes another hit with Buck and Tino leaving but luckily Pepsi-Cola is sponsoring a 3 on 3 basketball tournament in the barn to keep us powering through the summer. Nate, with the help of his sidekicks Brett and Caleb from the TPJ's, wins it all.

Remember all the highlight plays from Monday Night Football? To make a great night even better, we travel down the road to Cozy Corner for some ice cream. Remember when the five man relay all hit the last target at riflery? I've seen a lot of cool things in my time here at camp, and that moment is definitely up there. Remember Nate dropping 22 at the basketball tournament and Kreindler's Chinese yo-yo injury… Remember Fentress's rough morning that starts with the bowls in the dining hall and ends with landing on the ball in gaga? Only a hockey player like him can withstand such things. Dill Pickle Sobel is introduced to the group.

Remember beach day? J Rock meets us at the beach and we are so glad to see him. Everyone buys inflatable boats, and Austin gets a surprise visitor in his in the form of a baby. Toby finds love while Eli and Lips are busy having their food stolen by seagulls. Caspar asks if Gimbel is a counselor… Remember young noodle has it bad cause he tasty, nya, and back in my day…Fentress and Nirvaan aka Sam Rose Can match boxers on their last night. We are sad to see both of them go but thankful that Fentress could team up with Jack Olsher, Jack Kops, and Jack Levine to take on the other 3 kids who weren't at football on his last day. Team Jack swept the morning in bombardment and hockey, and when Fentress was replaced with Nate for the scavenger hunt, they almost pulled off another victory.

Remember finally being first to flagpole?… Remember Lips the Leprechaun and Theo as Donald Trump, Sobel the Ostrich and Gimbel the Flash…Remember Nate trucking Toby and Caspar becoming the juke master in team handball…Remember wishing Jody Podl a happy birthday? Later that night Austin went beast mode in gladiator ball even though the ball smelled like horse poop… Remember when magic card tricks took over the bunk? Nothing was more magical than the pine needle that Kreindler found. Everyone wants to test their luck on the basketball court. Remember Chase's walk of shame and everyone's new middle names?

Remember Robin Hood Gives Back? Watching Top Gun on the quad was one of the highlights of the summer. Maverick for Captain, Goose for Co got almost as much hype as Jackson for Captain. Jack Olsher impressed us all with his performance during Dan's yoga class. All in all we had a great time with Dan and we truly realized how lucky we are to live safe lives and have the opportunity to go to summer camp. Later that night after Dan's departure we head to the outpost for s'mores and a sleepover. Lips, Tyler, Nate, Theo, and Toby spend hours telling stories about their boy Jerry.

ARCHERS

Remember Parents Visiting Day? We start it off right on Friday night by killing our dance once again. The next morning features an epic showdown in knockout between Nate and his dad, with Nate pulling out the victory. The parents get revenge as they beat the kids by one in a full court game. Everyone gets in on gaga, but no one can stop the mighty TPJ Blake Lipman. In the afternoon we are glad to get in the water. Luckily when the rain comes we are sheltered in the riflery range, where Kreindler, Kops, and Chase's parents all impress us with their skills. I'm so glad that everyone's parents got to come and see what a great time you guys have at camp.

Remember the arrival of Arthur, Remo, Peter, Paolo, and David? Arthur arrives on his birthday, and we get two cakes in one day (one for his and one for Kreindler's birthday)! That day is a big one for the group, as we are introduced to Chase's squirrel voice and "seven days in a weak" becomes a new catch phrase. We learn that David and the basketball court are inseparable and Remo can't stay on the tube for his first EA…Remember Duke fans vs Duke haters, the creation of honorary counselors, and welcoming Nick Barone to the group? Remember the greasy honeydew challenge against the Yeomen? Paolo scores the lone goal for the Archers in a tough game. Peter hopes that we will be able to play greasy honeydew on land someday.

Remember excursion? We start it off right with some Dunkin Donuts before a trip to Monkey Trunks. Our action packed first day includes lunch at the Lakeside Deli, ice cream sundaes at Kellerhaus, and bowling at Funspot, the world's largest arcade. Back at the campsite, articles of clothing get held hostage. Remo goes on a chase for his hat and Eli has to cover himself with a trash can lid. Peter and Tyler befriend our neighbors who live in the RV. The next day we travel to Whales Tales, where Tyler wins the jump rope competition and Theo almost falls out of the half pipe. All in all, we had a great time, but it was good to be back in The Realm as the suspense surrounding Green & White was building up.

In the meantime, we present our awesome Founders' Night gift, a swinging bench, and welcome Tristan just in time to join in on the Green & White build up. Sure enough, the next day, Green & White breaks with an airplane, firetruck, and ATV with Dick and Chuck. Shout out to Max Lippard and Ben Kreindler for leading the mighty white team, and Toby Bloch and Theo Drye for leading the great green team for five ultra competitive days. A huge surprise, Nathaniel Dog Wildman dominates the first activity, basketball. Throughout the war, everyone rises up to the occasion, providing for a very close and memorable matchup between the Green & White Archers. In the end, the Paranormal Green comes out on top, but we all know that cookout is better than steak anyway. The last few days fly by, and in the blink of an eye the summer of 2016 comes to a close.

Paolo Agualimpia – I was a little worried about how quiet you were at first, but it turns out that you were just getting a feel for the group dynamic. Once you opened up we all got to witness what an awesome person you are to be around. I'm glad that in your short stay here you still got to experience Green & White and excursion. I hope you come back for longer next summer because I think you would love everything else that this place has to offer.

Arthur Aqraou – I can't imagine what it was like to arrive at a sleep away camp for the first time on your birthday, but you did it. From your first period, gymnastics, on, you embraced everything that camp had to offer. You are such a curious kid with a love for learning and knowing things, and that translated to a desire to understand more about camp, which I respect greatly.

Toby Bloch – You are undoubtedly one of the leaders in this group. Your genuine love for camp is unlike anything I have seen at such a young age, and you influence everyone to feel the same way about the greatest place on earth. Continue to cherish camp the way you do and I guarantee that you will get enough memories and lessons out of camp to last you a lifetime.

Chase Brooke – You had your ups and downs in the beginning of the summer, but soon enough you hit your stride and found your niche as one of the funniest kids in the bunk. Out of all the screams in the morning, yours was by far the best. I hope you are proud of winning triple crown time and time again, it was truly an impressive performance that you put forth this summer. It's so amazing that you and Toby have already spent five summers at camp, and there's no doubt in my mind that you'll be here for at least five more.

Ben Buman – As soon as you walked off the New York bus with a huge smile on your face I knew you were going to kill it. I know it was tough after hurting your leg the first night, but I'm so glad you pushed through it and got to enjoy what become your favorite activities. You instantly made new friends right away and fit in with the group seamlessly. Hope to see you back for longer next summer.

Tino Carideo – You were the first Archer to arrive this summer, and I couldn't have been more excited. You are such a sweet kid and I'm so happy that you tried out riding because I know how much you loved it. None of us will forget when your first chicken kiev exploded on you. You are one of the most respectful people I know and I hope you will honor camp with your presence for more than two weeks next summer.

David Chachoua – You are such an enthusiastic kid and a pleasure to be around. I'm glad that whenever I wanted to play basketball I knew you would keep me company. Following your first afternoon you told me about how you were worried about camp but were already loving it, and from then on I got to see firsthand how much you got out of camp in the few weeks you were here.

Theo Drye – You are someone that everyone in the group looks up to and respects, and that's a very impressive thing to pull off as an 11 year old. I was so amazed by your maturity and leadership during Green & White. You absolutely killed it as Willy Wonka in the Junior Camp skit. I'm glad that you decided not to leave camp for track. You have your priorities straight and I think you get the importance of camp which is crucial.

Jack Fentress – I'm so glad you extended to three weeks. Obviously, I wish you ended up staying the full time, but I cherished that extra week that you got to spend with us. You have such a strong influence in the group, and you are friends with everyone. You get camp and how important it is, and I hope that you keep coming for as long as you can because you are perfect for camp. I'm sorry about your black eye, but it probably happened because the Islanders suck. I'm glad you got the best area in the group sleeping next to me. See you next year for at least 7.

Caspar Glaenzer – I am so impressed by the way you merged with the group. In your first summer, coming almost two weeks late and from another country, you quickly became one of the most liked kids in the group. You gave it your all in every activity, and no one had to ask you twice when something needed to be done. I was so happy to hear you say that you wanted to come back next year because you understand what camp is all about and your group would love to see you again.

Austin Goodman – Although you say you haven't had a moment where camp has just clicked for you, there's no doubt to me that you are a camp person. You understand the ins and outs, the history and traditions of camp, which can't be said for many other people your age. You love camp and camp loves you, you need camp and camp needs you. I know your moment will come if it hasn't already, and I know that you will continue to be back for years to come.

ARCHERS

Tristan Hill – Coming to camp right before Green & White was not ideal, but I'm glad you got to experience the best five days of the summer with your brother on the same team. You are a funny kid with a kind heart, and you lift everyone's spirits with your presence. I know being separated from the people you love can be difficult, but I hope that you give camp another chance because I know you enjoyed it and would have a great time if you stayed for longer.

Jack Kops – You are without a doubt one of the best listeners in the group. You are a such a respectful kid and would always complete a task when you were asked to do so. I'm not totally sure, but I think you win the competition of having the highest voice in the group, so cherish that while it lasts. I think it's really great how close you are with your older sister. Camp is the perfect place for you to express yourself, keep taking advantage of it.

Ben Kreindler – Although you are soft spoken, you still established a strong presence within the group this year. I admire how close you are with your family, not just your sister and cousins who you share camp with, but your parents as well. Your positivity and willingness to go hard in every activity rubbed off on the group day in and day out. You are a key piece in this group and I hope you continue to kill it for years to come.

Jack Levine – It was so cool to see how happy the group was to see you on Beach Day. Your arrival was long anticipated, and you certainly lived up to the hype. I know you were a little disappointed to be against Jamie in her captain summer, but you didn't let it impact how much fun and how well you performed during Green & White, and to make matters even better, you beat her. Hopefully you will be able to join us for the full summer next year.

Tyler Lipman – You are such a kind, outgoing kid. You did such a great job of welcoming some of the new campers and bringing them in so that they feel like a part of the group. I know you like riding and crafts more than team handball and soccer, but the moments where you gave it your all in the field were some of my proudest of the summer, highlighted by your touchdown in Monday Night Football. I promise you that you will get so much out of camp if you put all of your love and effort into everything you do here.

Max Lippard – Watching you lead the white team this year was quite a treat. Just like the rest of the summer, you killed it in those five days. Sharing camp experiences with your brother and your dad is a unique, extremely special circumstance, and you understand that. You never waste a minute here and always have a smile on your face, two of the most important things to do at camp. Hopefully one day we will find your football.

Remo Marcaccio – I know it was easy for you to defer to Nate and Theo since you knew them from school, but instead you branched out and befriended the whole group, something that I think you will grow to realize was the best decision of your summer. You made a seamless transition into the group, and your personality fit in with everyone else. I'm glad you chose to join your old friends here and hope you come back to spend time with the new friends you have made here.

Buck Morse – I absolutely loved clowning with you this summer. Your first night was definitely an interesting one, as you woke me up in the middle of the night to tell me you were on Austin's bed and had no idea how. You killed it in the talent show with the gangnam style dance, and I had a great time hanging out with you at the softball tournament. It's a bummer you could only stay for two weeks this year. I hope to see you back for longer next summer.

Jack Olsher – I know coming to Robin Hood was tough at first, but after about a week or two you came out of your shell and instantly proved to be one of the funniest kids in the group. I'll never really know how many variations of Fatima there are, but they all are quite entertaining. I was so proud of you when you got up on the wakeboard on your first try! Needless to say though, singing is your passion, and I hope you never give up on it because you have a bright future ahead of you.

Nirvaan Pandit – Coming to a new camp from another country is such a hard thing to do, and showing up a week late makes matters even more challenging. I'm so proud of you for the way that you instantly befriended your bunkmates. You meshed with everyone so well. You're a hilarious kid, and we missed laughing with you after you left us. I know you are a busy guy, especially in the summers, but I think it would be great for you if you could come back for longer next year.

Peter Ryan – You are the funniest kid in camp, hands down. I loved messing around and joking with you on a consistent basis. There was never a dull moment once you arrived, and I'm sure that the group is thankful for the occasions where you extended flashlight time by making me laugh. It's too bad that you can't come to camp for longer, but just continue to live it up and enjoy the time you do get to spend here.

Eli Sobel – Next to Peter, you and Phil Bobbinson are up there in terms of hilarity. You always have a smile on your face and you truly don't waste a minute at camp. You really emerged as a leader in the group this year during competitive activities, always looking out for everyone. I'm so proud of you for stepping up and I know that your amazing attitude towards camp and your group will be sustained for many more years.

Griffin Steinkraus – You fit in with the whole group right away, which is much easier said than done. You were a great guy to be around, and everybody knew it. You were an unstoppable force in steal the bacon and capture the flag, and I can only imagine how much of an impact you would have had on Green & White this summer. Camp is good for you and you are good for camp. Keep coming back.

Pierce Terowsky – Like many others in the group, you were always able to consistently generate laughter from everyone. You are a genuine kid, and your love for camp runs deep. I know the beginning of camp, featuring several trips to the infirm, was tough, but I'm glad you made it through those times and that everything is feeling better now. You were one of the best temporary counselors I hired on my staff. In general I just had a great time hanging out with you and can't wait to see you next year.

Nate Wildman – You really matured as a person over the summer, and it was awesome to watch. You always know when to crack a joke, but more importantly you became a much better leader as the summer progressed. You are an extremely competitive kid and remind me a lot of myself, and it was great to see you start to get what camp is about years before I did. Thank you for always having my back and supporting Duke.

Staff – I truly couldn't have done it without you guys. From day one we formed a strong team and worked as a unit, always on the same page. I have no regrets for this summer, and I hope you feel the same way, because I truly believe that we achieved everything we hoped to and more.

Archers of 2016 – I couldn't have asked for a funnier, sweeter group of kids. Less than 24 hours into the summer I realized how special of a group you guys are and how lucky I was to have you. You guys have provided me with countless unforgettable memories, and for that I am eternally grateful. I love all of you, but you still can't date my daughter.

YEOMEN

Alright, alright, alright, alright, alright, alright, alright, alright, now Joemen Joemen count off! Put down your ping pong paddles, magic cards, poké balls...because we have a beach party! Join me while I take you Back to Back through Summer 16.

Remember how excited you all were to get to camp? The Realm finally felt alive again. Remember when Amos got to camp? Of course you don't, he came a day early. Remember when we went back to back with Max and our Bunk? Remember our first night playing capture the flag? Remember when Max hit trees way before Danny? Remember when Jay hit trees? We don't. Remember when we respected the new water dispensing devices and made the conscious decision to conserve water? Neither do I. Whether it was water fights against the Bows, Archers, your staff, or even yourselves, we never passed up an opportunity to waste a resource many impoverished families would die for. Remember when Jose evolved in a mere matter of hours from an unassuming Camp Over Seas counselor to a fully grown living legend? Remember Amos' announcement during counselor hunt, followed by Mercer notifying the camp of a possible Farooq sighting? Remember rabbi Greenfield? Remember when She said 'that'? Remember Mercer and Nick using Propel packets correctly? Remember changing all the rules to circle football? Remember archery being the prime spot to hide during counselor hunt? Remember truth, dare, double dare, kiss? Remember Amos and Eli's nighttime bug spray battles? Remember when Jose was muy loco? Not surprised we weren't called first for Sundays. Remember when Eli killed it against the Quills in gaga? Jay called a very fair game. Remember opting out of quad time for the insane dance party on our basketball court? Remember Nick during spud? He didn't realize that two paddy wagons would be more than enough fun for one day. Remember Pickles' Poke Dungeon? Remember the 3 on 3 basketball tourney? Good thing Danny went with his gut on that one.

Remember the Pajama Jump? Dodge's shampoo skit will always be a timeless classic. Remember Eli's swan dive? Remember the rock family? Remember quad time? We don't. Remember Giesen's rubbery ears? Remember when Max hooked it up with the shortest hike possible? Obviously it wasn't short enough for Mercer. Remember Farooq? Remember Nick's diet? 4th of July corn dogs never tasted so good. Remember when Jackson knew? Remember the bombardment intensive? The double period finally paid off when we beat the Lancers. Remember when Jay lost his freakin' mind? Remember when Dodge missed everybody last night? Remember Jose's dizzy kick ball pep talks? Remember all the classic match ups? Mercer vs Barone with shampoo, Nathaniel vs Barone in steal the bacon, and Amos vs Eli in just about everything. Whether you guy's were taking each other out on the lax field, girls camp field, or the senior waterfront, you always found a way to make the staff laugh.

Remember breaking down patriarchal barriers when we were the first Boy's Camp group to do a backwards scavenger hunt?

Bring us: Nathaniel's left sock, a love letter, a snack, an empty container of tooth paste, and a fart. That last one was Jake's favorite. Remember when we flamed the Archers in capture the flag? Not even a fight broke out… until Danny took the field. Remember broomstick lightsabers? Remember endless Office references? Nick and Pickles even went one on one my mother is to find out who the biggest fan was.

Remember the Mainers game? Everyone ate way too much candy, but thankfully the Mainers pulled off the win. Remember when Ben kicked the dodgeball into the basket? Remember Pickles' alternate personality? Remember Eli, Graham, Nathaniel and the Karpe? Remember when Pickles went different but well known positions on the tube? Remember finding all the Weedles on the boat? Remember Giesen's Baloony? Remember Grahams modern art? Remember when Ryan started the fire? Remember the epic ping pong celebrations? Remember spider wars? Remember when Jose was the GL and Jay wasn't? Jose even came in spicy with a great Max impression, even tucking in his shirt and putting on a hat. Remember the quest to be first at flag pole? Remember when Hamani, Michael, and Jason made their beds? Remember our human Pokémon battles? Remember when Jay lost the clipboard and tried to replace it with Mason's?

Remember Robin Hood Gives Back? You guys were quiet and respectful as Sgt. Dan recounted the tale of how he lost both legs while serving over seas. You truly took his message seriously, and that set us up for a great next day with Dan. Remember Top Gun on the quad? Maverick for Captain, Goose for Co. Remember yoga with Dan the next day? I think i'm still sore. Finally, remember writing letters to soldiers who are currently sacrificing their lives for our safety? Each and every one of you, including those not from this country, wrote genuine and heartfelt letters. That was truly a special day.

Remember when Hamani took a tumble next to our benches? Remember Amos's lax stick and Pickles' silly spray? Remember when Eli practiced his karate skills on Jay? Remember skit night? No one was safe, especially Danny. Remember packing Hunter into a box and shipping him into a shower? Remember the bacon baptism? Remember Michaels bathroom break during camper hunt? Remember the ultimate selfie with Jose? Remember Hamani the fly catcher? Remember the killer West End play date? With the help of Schmidt and Grossman both draining three's and Nick's catching abilities we took Second place on the day. Remember the single french fry Midnight McDonalds? Remember when Graham was the youngest camper ever to climb Katahdin? Remember the rocket ship van?

Remember PVD? While all of our hilarity was put on hold for about a day, I really enjoyed getting the chance to meet all of your parents and seeing where each of your roots are. Also, we crushed that dance. While PVD weekend marked the end of Summer 16 for some of our friends, it also acted as the beginning for others.

Remember the days before excursion? Everyone was on their toes because we could be packing our bags or picking the bean at any given second. Remember Ziebold's Double Stuff Oreos? Remember our second round of steal the bacon? Big hits from Henry and Ben. Remember our Shire Aides? Remember "Lake Smoke"? Remember Greek names? Remember the greasy watermelon honeydew challenge against the Archers? The entire dining hall was, against us but of course we still won. Remember speed ball with Scott? Remember Amos and Noah dabbing on the tube? Remember 80s day? Music was great and energy was high. Pickles even rocked some swag leg warmers. Remember baloongas during the double period mountain bike? Remember our bombardment challenge against the Quills? We won and even had time for a casual game of hodgy podgy. Remember the bat attack? We all coward outside the bunks while JG and Shawn, professional bat killers, thwarted the mutual foe. Remember when Michael asked the infirm table for butter? Silly Michael, butter isn't medicine!

Then, finally, excursion was finally here. First stop, the good ole Saco River. Motor boats? Inflatable tubes? Sunny weather? Nope. We traversed through the rough terrain in the brutal rain in tandem kayaks. What a way to start the trip. We then found ourselves at Uberblast, one of North Conway's most hidden gems. While most of us spent our time on the inflatables and playing laser tag, Noah was busy busting the machines inside and winning every ticket Uberblast had to offer. With the help of a few others, we were able to get not one, not two, but THREE huge stuffed animals, who instantly became the groups newest members. We then found ourselves at the campgrounds setting up shop. James politely taught us how to properly set up a tent while Danny massaged the steak seasoning into each and every delicious chop. Remember the store at the camp ground? You all cleared them out of toy guns, and then we cleared you all out of your new favorite toys. Remember when Hamani wouldn't put down his Cheeto Puffs and then Max made him suffer the consequences? Remember our late night movie? What a great way to end our night.

Day two rolled around and off we went, venturing into the White Mountains to the Atittash Resort. Remember the jumping off that massive tower? Remember the completely safe alpine coasters? Remember our pizza lunch? From Atittash, we traveled through the start studded streets of North Conway in search of a simple thing, a thrift store. While our search beard no fruits, we did make our way into the outlets to cop some sweet gear from Nike and Pac Sun. After that we smashed 2 for 20s at Applebee's and made our way back to the campsite for smores. Remember meeting the grounds keeper?

Day three started off as good as any other, breakfast at Dunkin'. Remember making new friends in the parking lot? I hope that couple had a nice weekend in Cape Cod. From there we made a quick stop at TJ Maxx before heading to the main event, Kahoona Lagoona. Remember Nick and Mercer's new shorts? Remember the indoor water park? Great rides, good chicken fingers, and a sweet arcade. There really isn't much anyone else could ask for in life. From there, we started on the long trip back to The Realm. Excursion was incredibly fun and you are all to thank for that. You guys all listened and took the serious things seriously, and that made the staff's job a lot easier.

We hadn't been on camp for even 24 hours when Green & White broke. Congratulations to Noah, Schmidt, Amos, and Nick on leading two great time and never giving up. You guys all had a great war and played with an incredible level or heart and sportsmanship. After every event, win or lose, the Yeomen shook hands and congratulated their opponents. Coaching and watching you all succeed was the highlight of my war. That was truly a great five days, and I am so excited to see how it shakes down for you all next year.

The war ended and we all knew the end of camp was near, but that did not mean it was over. We ran some of the best periods of the summer during these few days. Thank you for never giving up. Remember Jason's new dance to "They're coming to take me away"? We will never be able to forget that. Remember our last tubing period? Pickles, Nick, and Noah took the off option. Remember Brooke Sweat, the volleyball player?

After an incredible seven weeks, Summer 16 finally came to close. The staff had an incredible time and we are so happy that you all finished strong. The Yeomen are a great group, and you will only get better. Have a great year, and see you next summer.

Noah Giesen – Having a smile on your face 24/7 is no easy task, but somehow you pulled it off. You never had a dull moment and the group could always count on you for a corny joke or cliché saying. Being new can sometimes be tough, but you made merging into this tight knit group look easy. While we were all sad to part ways with you after only two weeks, we are excited to see what next summer has in store for "The Cutest Kid in the Yeomen." Keep on smiling, and keep coming back.

Oscar Sainz – You came into The Realm as a new camper from Mexico and left as an integral part of the Yeomen of 2016. You're a big time jokester who understands the fine line of when to be serious and when to goof off. I know you will be back and I am excited to see what The Realm has in store for you.

Max Lennox – It is a great privilege to share my first name with a person like yourself. You are a true gentleman and that shows in everything you do. You know when to be loud and when to be quiet and others follow your lead. Jumping up a group is never easy, but you completely blend in with the 2016 Yeomen. You are an incredibly respectful person and everyone appreciates that about you. The group was sad to see you leave at the three week mark, but we know you'll be here for years to come.

Logan Kaganovsky – You've made great friends here and established relationships that you will have for a long time. It was great to watch you step out of your comfort zone and grow as a person during the only short four weeks you were here.

YEOMEN

Hunter Dagnino – You were only with us for two weeks but it felt like the full two months. You brought energy and excitement to everything you did whether it was riflery at the range or ping pong in the bunk.

Nathaniel Hill – It has been a true pleasure to get to know you over the past two years and I have enjoyed every minute of it. You bring something special to the table which completes this group. You are a lot of fun and I can't wait to see you next year in The Realm for seven weeks.

Graham Napack – You are just a solid dude. You're dependable, caring, and you always give everything you best effort. People follow your example and you're always leading in the right direction. Please keep coming back, there is so much here for you to do.

Gavin Gore – I was incredibly happy when you decided to stay for four weeks. I know it must have been tough to part ways with the Goose but you just pushed forward and it only got better from there. You had a great summer and The Realm is lucky to have you.

James Dodge – If anyone in the group was ever down they always turned to you for a laugh. While sometimes your jokes may be ill timed, you always bring a smile to everybody's face. Thank you for always staying positive and caring for every member of this group.

Ollie Snidow – From the moment you got back to camp you had a smile on your face. Your positivity boosted the groups attitude 100%. You understand camp and your love for this place is indescribable. I hope to see you back next year.

Jake Baumoel – Despite being a year younger, you do belong in this group. I see that every single day I spend with all of you guys. The people in this group care about you and you are one of their many brothers. You love camp and camp loves you back. You did a great job this summer, and I can see only good things in your future at The Realm.

Amos Blumberg – Your funny nature and witty humor has not changed since our time together in the 2015. You're always seeking out something fun to do and you're a great doubles partner. You truly take full advantage of what The Realm has to offer and you get what camp is all about. Never change.

Nick Barone – You're a huge goofball and camp needs people like that. While sometimes it may seem like I'm upset with an action you've made, I am really just trying to teach you how to be a better person. I'm excited to watch represent Gilmour on the basketball court of the next year. Go Lancers.

Hamani Al-Mutawa – You came in and instantly made an impact on this group. You're a silly kid who knows how to make people laugh. If you use that to your advantage, the sky is the limit.

Faris Badrawi – The Realm and the Yeomen could always use more kids like you. On the surface you are reserved and quiet, but once you take the the soccer pitch you are an animal. You're also respectful 100% of the time, and the staff appreciates that. You fit in well here, and I can't wait to see you next year.

Henry Godbout – You worked your way extremely well into this close group of kids. Your athletic ability is off the chart, and camp saw that during Green & White. You had a great five days, and I am excited to see what future wars have in store for you.

Jason Goodman – It isn't easy to join a close group of friends mid summer, but I believe you found your place in this group. You are a smart and ambitious kid that also knows how to make people laugh. Your time at camp has just begun.

Eli Greenfield – You try make people think you aren't as silly as you are, but I know the truth. I've seen the Eli that dance to Temperature and recites entire Eminem versus. Camp is a place where you don't need to hide your carefree and crazy side, and I think you are starting to realize that. I cannot wait to watch you grow up in this place.

Noah Grossman – You're the kind of kid that people want to be around. You're nice, caring, funny, and motivating. Most of the time you're doing the right thing and people notice that and follow. Robin Hood is your home, and you will go far here.

Sebastian Karlson – Pickles, you are the nicest and sweetest kid in the group. If there's a new camper, you're always introducing yourself and bringing them right into anything we're doing. Every year I look forward to the all camp events just so I can watch you make the entire camp laugh. See you next year.

Mason Kasimov – You get camp. You want the best for this place and your group and that in awesome. You bring you A game to everything you do and that motivates others around you to do the same. You are an incredibly thoughtful person who genuinely cares about the well being of his group mates. Camp is your home and I'm excited to see you grow here.

Mercer Kruzner – Hanging out with you is always fun. You're immature when it's funny and mature when it's time to get serous. You understand camp and you know how special this place is. There comes a time every year where each person has to weigh their options for next summer and make their plans. I'm confident that whatever you choose will be the right answer and you will strive anywhere. Good luck next year.

Andrew Schmidt – You care for each kid in the group as an individual and also the group as a whole. You made the staff's job easier by always listening and following the rules. When you did those things, others followed, and the Yeomen accomplished greatness. Please keep leading in the right direction, I know you're up for the challenge.

Yassine Sefiani – You came into the Yeomen as a quiet kid from Morocco, and left as an integral part of this group. Camp is a place where you can be yourself, and you realized that and embraced that. I hope to see you back next summer.

Andrés Tello – You've grown since Yeomen summer. You have become more aware of your surroundings and respectful and those are two great qualities to have. I am excited to see you in The Realm for years to come.

Ben Wall – You instantly jumped into this close group of guys in the middle of the summer and that's not an easy task. You are just a solid guy who knows how to laugh and have fun. Camp could use a few more guys like you; please keep coming back.

Michael Zakay – You're a savage. Not really, but it was pretty savage how often you had a smile on your face. Everything with you was always positive and that's a great skill to have. Never stop smiling, and people will enjoy you.

Christian Ziebold – You go about everything you do with the upmost respect. You always try your hardest and you're always trying to be your best self. Camp is a great place for you and I can't wait to see you next year.

Yeomen of 2016 -

Thank you for an unbelievable and unforgettable summer. I am so lucky to have had you guys two years in a row and I couldn't ask for a better group as my first year being a GL. Each and everyone of you brings something special and unique into the group. If you all keep coming back, by the time 2020 rolls around the Saxons will be an unstoppable force. I love you all, and thank you so much. See you next summer.

LANCERS

Lancers, you all have come a major way since the Westchester Bus rolled in on June 24th, 2016. Dick's first words to you guys were: what do you want to make out of this summer? I believe you took that question very seriously, because you guys jumped right into it.

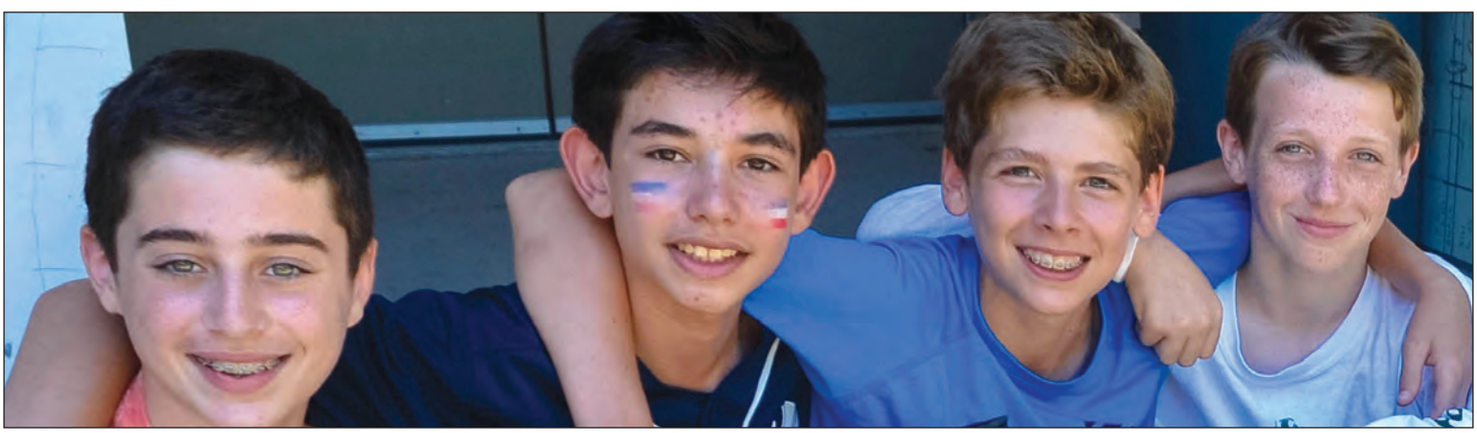

Remember our first EA? Danish on the fresh cut grass of the quad and Kreindler's arrival? Within the first night, I felt a very positive energy within this group. One of the reasons that I felt that way was because you were all so accepting of the newest members to join the Lancers. Remember the L-Board? No guys, it's not a L. It's a yoke…Remember Strauss's endless cookie jar and how we've all taken his cookie? I still have it, Cooper, and I'm never giving it back!

Mr. Strauss takes the cake again. Remember when Podl took his cookie at basketball? Remember just two days in and celebrating Rodin's birthday down at the waterfront with some fire pizza and an epic sunset? Remember how I went winless at connect four? [still salty about that Jacob].

Remember the Fourth of July? Chuck in an uber golfcart, there really is not a better sight. Remember tickle dis? Remember swimming 15 laps with the Cosby's and their family?

Remember our gaga challenge against the Arrows? I totally got you guys hyped for that. Also remember our undefeated record in challenges? You guys low key work really well together in team sports, I'm excited to see you guys go to intercamps all as a group. Remember our hike? I was totally there for that to motivate you all and push through the behemoth that is Mt. Chocura.

Remember our group dance? Strauss kills it as John Wall, and Kriendler proceeds to "Jumpman" over him? Remember 2 V C? Remember Gavin's lip? Yikes…One of the largest remember whens of them all, THAT ROCK! IT TOOK OFF ITS MASK!

Remember when James flew off the tube and ascended 8 feet into the air? Remember Parkour!!! PARKOUR! PARKOUR! PARKOUR! FARQUAAD! Remember when Strauss broke his own record for keeping his eyes open without blinking? Remember Beach Day? As always, the water was a bit chilly, but the day itself was fantastic. Remember 1482? @ SamRosenthal. Remember the Church? Or how could I forget, V-Nation. One of the dumbest trends to enter The Realm.

Remember the buzz? Not Jake's brightest decision. Remember PVD? We started out the day with some boating periods, followed by a really solid game of Ultimate Frisbee. I can tell you guys this, my group's parents were nowhere near on the level of athleticism that some of your parents are. The classic PVD lunch and of course, the PVD cookies. Afternoon was absolutely stacked. I think we swept the afternoon to be honest. Gaga and basketball. Probably our two best sports.

Remember Strauss' 13:53 of no blinking. Remember in our final group meeting of four weeks? Max randomly loses a tooth. Speaking of the Olshdaddy, remember when he sang Seven Years at the PVD talent show and rocked it? Remember the slippery second base? Domination in football vs West End? 48-6, yeesh! Remember me me me @tanner. Remember when James finally won a game of gaga? Thanks Mr. Shanahan. Remember Canteen and the Sandbar? Remember Top Gun on the quad? And when Strauss and Braden killed it [literally] at make your counselor laugh?

Remember excursion? Day one, we go to OSG paintball, followed by dinner at the campsite, and then watching the golden jet do his thing in Central Intelligence. Day 2, we go to Canobie Lake Amusement Park, that's on me for thinking it was a water park, followed by a fire dinner at Flatbread and ice cream in Portsmouth. Day 3, we meet up with Dick for some deep sea fishing and set the record for most heads bitten off by a group of Lancers. Remember Tanner's new outfit/holes?

LANCERS

Remember Ginsberg's goggles? And the delusional dog…Remember Alfred? Toilet wires? Or how about when Angelo slept with his eyes open? Thanks Rybo. Remember BBB [Ginsy]? Remember Salty Sue?

Remember Green & White? We were all killing it at Parkour with the Most Honorable Jamie Levine [that's Le-Vine] and the plane flies over the tennis court. Captains, Jesse and Alex, Co's Jack and Brooks. It was a very even war with a ton of intensity, especially at our soccer and football games. White started off very strong, but as the war progressed, green made their move, and it eventually became a very even war.

Remember the last night of camp? Mcdos, endless ramen, Starbucks, chips and salsa.

Logan Alderman – Your time at The Realm is always cut short which really stinks. However, you do everything in your ability to maximize your time at camp. It's good to have a large amount in confidence in yourself and you do. I hope to see you in The Realm again.

Santiago Balbontin – There is no question that you are the most enthusiastic kid in this group. You are loved by everybody and have such a positive impact on everyone. Your smile is infectious, and I know that your love for camp is as strong as anyone's. I also appreciate how intensely you take everything. Your competitive nature will take you far in life.

Daniel Cageao – Mi Hijo…Your time in The Realm was brief but you certainly made a name for yourself during your two weeks here. I know that it is hard to come to a place like this when you are from another country, but you made it look easy. You now have a very important role in this group, and I hope to see you back for longer next year.

Angelo Casabianca – Going into the summer, I did not know you very well. I couldn't be happier that you and I got close, because I can now understand why you are a major name around camp. You are easily one of the most mature thirteen year olds I have ever met, and despite your summers always being a tad short, you live up every waking moment that you have in The Realm, which is the way it should be. Kiss.

Henry Flug – If I could call you my little brother, I would. I see so much of you in me. You know exactly what camp means to you and why it is important. I love talking with you, playing war, or listening to music. I hope that as you continue to mature, you will start to understand that it is okay to take risks in your life, regardless of the outcome. I think that will take you a long way. Keep doing you, NICK DOLAN.

Brooks Galbraith – You have such a large importance to this group and how it is built up. As I have told you multiple times, I see so much of myself within you. You are not asking to be in the spotlight -- you instead want to have your groupmates have their moments. That's a true leader of the group. I'm so happy that I got to be your counselor, and I know that camp has large things in store for you in the years to come.

Alex Ginsberg – Your facial expressions just make me laugh. You get camp as a Lancer, which is an amazing thing. That is something I could not say when I was a Lancer. You are also just the biggest clown. Whether its showering with goggles, being the flash, or just playing a friendly game of basketball, you are always down to clown, which is awesome. Go Bulls.

Jacob Greenfield – It only made sense that you slept next to a very smart and mature kid. You are wise beyond your years. You also do a great job of just being you, and I think the group respects you for that. Thank you for bringing exploding kittens to The Realm.

Oliver Grynberg – There are few campers that embody Robin Hood, and you are one of those kids. You have a consistent sense of optimism and a really cool personality. Classic Cali, am I right? I want you to know that even though you were not able to stay for all of camp this year, I have full confidence that you will be here for all 47 days next year. Camp needs people like you. When you are at camp, Robin Hood is simply a better place. One love.

Braden Kislin – You are a camp character, salty. Attention is certainly your middle name, and that is not necessarily a bad thing. Each group needs an entertainer, and you are fortunate to be the one for this group. You have a lot of what makes a great Robin Hood person in you, and I hope to see it come out in the future.

Jake Kreindler – Hey Jake. Hope you're doing well. I'm doing great, thanks for asking. Your love for Robin Hood is second to none. I may be wrong, but I'm pretty sure you act very differently at camp than you do at home. You definitely have a large sense of comfort at camp. Whether you are cutting your hair for some silly reason or spraining your ankle, your positive spirit never breaks. Knowing that you are come out of your comfort zone makes me feel that I have succeeded as a counselor.

Josh Leon – It was almost too easy for you to fit into this group. Seriously. I don't know if I have ever seen a new camper jump right into it so fast. It helped that you had Ang with you, but I think it's pretty easy to say you are one of the most liked kids in this group. You're calm, collected, and cool. Not to mention, you're pretty athletic. Hope to see you back next summer.

Jacopo Mazzi – AH HEY! You will always be the first. There is no question that you have a massive passion for camp, and that's such an awesome thing. You without question "Do not waste a minute". Whether it's going 110% at gaga or fighting me to get on the benches for one final point of ping pong, you truly do care. Keep having that passion. It can go such a long way, not just at Robin Hood, but in life.

Gavin Munnell – Your laid back demeanor is exactly what every counselor dreams of. You are the kind of kid that gets along with everyone and you are a good decision maker. You know when it's time to step out a little and be silly, and when it's time to dial back and slow down. I thank you for being such a cool and relaxed person, and I hope that you can cop me some tickets to your next show.

Caleb Nadell – Man, you've got some tough skin. You are totally not afraid to do your own thing and not let anyone else tell you otherwise. It's pretty easy to recognize your love for camp and for your group. I know that it is not easy for you when you are at school, but just know Robin Hood will always be around for you. Can't wait to see you in the house next year.

Max Olsher – From the moment I met you, I knew that you were going to be a star. Your positive attitude and infectious smile are always such a great thing to see. I think it's pretty easy to say that you have made your mark on The Realm. Everyone knows that Max Olsher is Robin Hood's main man when it comes to singing. I'm so happy that you found your niche here, and I hope that you will continue to be yourself. I miss your hugs.

Henry Rodin – Never have I seen such a positive kid. It takes a lot for you to get upset, which is something that hardly anyone can say about themselves. I just love that you always pick yourself up and move on. This is such a hard thing to understand, especially as a thirteen-year-old, yet you've mastered it. You are so fortunate to share Robin Hood with your family in such a tightknit way.

Sam Rosenthal – As I write this shoutout, you are currently earning 1-4-9-2 points. Nuff said. You are quietly one of the funniest kids in camp. You fit into this group so well, because it brings out all of your strengths, which is an amazing thing. I know for a fact that you don't waste your time here, and I hope that some other people in the group will start to follow your lead. Bye Smith.

Jesse Schumann – I'm going to be honest, you are more mature than me. Never did I have to tell you to do something twice. It really is amazing how great of a kid you are. You love camp, and everyone at camp loves you. You are the epitome of what makes a great kid. A leader, smart, and cool. I hope you understand the amount of respect I have for you.

Ian Schwam – You came in late, but that didn't stop you. You're a major piece of this group, and it seems that everyone appreciates your presence. You also are one heck of an athlete, on top of your talents in wrestling. Even though you bat lefty, I'm confident you will hit trees one day. Thank you for being so chill all the time.

Liam Seiler – It's really incredible how smart you are. In fact, sometimes I really thought that you were outsmarting me. There is not one person in this camp that you aren't afraid to stick up to. You are always doing you, no matter what anyone says. I also love that you actually to enjoy doing things that require you to step out of your comfort zone. If you continue to have that mindset, you are going to live your life to the fullest.

LANCERS

Jack Shanahan – Camp is going to play a very large role in your life. This group brings out the best in you, and I hope you know that. You may not see it right now, but this group would fall apart if you were not there. In a nutshell, you are the glue that holds the group together. I know that you may be reading this with raised eyebrows, but believe me when I say this, you are a true leader.

Liam Sheridan – When I first met you, I could tell that you were built for The Realm. Your laid back personality and calming demeanor made my job a lot easier. Your time at camp was brief, however I truly believe that you did maximize every minute you had here. I think it is also safe to say that you have an extreme passion for gaga, and I know that you will be counting the days until you return for your second summer at Robin Hood.

Tanner Slesh – If I could write this shoutout in terms of meees, I would. However, I wanted to be clear: you've got such a strong foundation here at camp. Never have I seen a relationship like the one you have with Dick. I also think that the relationship you and I formed is something very special so I thank you for that.

Cooper Strauss – I honestly don't have a way to describe how awesome of a kid you are. You know how to make people laugh, and not in a conventional way, which is a really cool thing. I knew who you were prior to this summer, but I'm so happy that I truly got to know you this year. You have some of the best decision making skills that a 13-year-old can have. Keep doing you, because this group loves you for who you are.

Andres Urmeneta – Before you arrived at camp, the only way I could picture you was when you were an Archer and wore rec specs. That was you, right? Anyway, I couldn't be more proud of you for everything you did this summer. It took you less than a week to extend for seven weeks, and it's pretty clear that you did not waste a minute. Whether it was always playing basketball or rest hour or chilling on our porch, you made valuable use of your time. You are a very cool and relaxed kid.

Arturo Vidaurri Tucker – Your first real day of camp wasn't until your fourth day with the group, but that didn't stop you from understanding what Robin Hood is about. You are a very mature and smart kid, which is not uncommon for this group. If you can, come for full session next year so you can experience all of what camp is.

To my staff – I said to all at the beginning of the summer that my goal was to make sure you all were capable of running the group without me being there. I believe that I did achieve that, and even if you disagree with me, I am so thankful for all the hard work you guys put in. You all were so easy to work with, and it seems like just yesterday that we all showed up to square dancing in kilts.

Lancers of 2016 – It has been an absolute pleasure to be your group leader, and I hope to see all 23 of you back in The Realm next summer. You guys have a real opportunity to lead boys camp next year as Friars. Keep in touch, and one love.

FRIARS

SUP DUDES, THROW DOWN YOUR GUCCI BANDANAS AND LET'S REMINISCE ON ONE OF THE BEST SUMMERS EVER SUMMER 16.

We started off the summer with a bang even though we had small numbers. Our first EA was an epic game of steal the bacon where everyone thought they were matched up in teams soon to find out that the pairings were there opponents. From there, we made camp know the dominant nature of the Friar group by storming The Realm with intensity and tons of humor. Remember when Khalid couldn't brake on the bike, or Dylan's secret weapon in the huddle for Family Feud and Gabe clearly pulling his team even though they came up short? What about the epic 1v1 battles at the senior camp waterfront and when Marc and Peter took me down multiple times? Remember that time when we got Sunday sundaes for elevating the table higher and higher as groups got called, or Ethan's savage moments in the d hall when he turned off Scribe song after Scribe song. Ethan dropping the first two tree shots of the summer hitting upper-deckers? Remember Mikey and Peter flipping Jameson's canoe.

How could we forget how we ended each day off on a high with the dance circles every night. We saw various and intricate moves arrive with time and highlight moves such as the Schmidt's special Double Dutch, Francesco's slick Italian moves, Danegger's flailing, and the most important, the Gabberdoddle.

After an impressive fun and quick first week, we continued to pick up the intensity in our second week together in The Realm. There were so many memorable moments: bro seshes would go on for way too long… But how could we forget Charlie's surprise at the ODT or Adam drilling a soccer ball at the soccer post, knocking me unconscious. Our boat ride to the sandbar had many highlights such as Ethan eating a chicken wing at the bottom of Lake Ossipee, Dylan getting his towel stuck in his brace, asking strangers about their gators, or even walking as a group to the drop-off. We also represented the Hood so well in the House game where Zach, Peter, and Phil helped mount an almost unsurpassable comeback that unfortunately just fell short in the end. Not only were those three ballin' it up on the floor, but we brought a strong crowd presence to say the least with the fancy boys [Danegger and Khalid] dressing dapper for the game. We also made a strong presence in the dining hall as well by Luke's munching of the dry ramen noodles, cleaning the brass's table, and many other shenanigans. With great success come great failure and we had plenty of those occurrences as well, such as losing to Tumby-town in Gaga, swallowing unsafe amounts of sprinkler water, and Khalid donating his dollar to basketball player at Winaukee after a drained three in his eye. Other than that one occurrence at the intercamp tourney, we dominated the field in the spots tournaments: Marc and George's W at the indoor soccer tournament, and Splash Bro takeovers. Even though we were out of camp quite a bit, we made the most out of our time at home, running epic trick plays in football, our double tubing period, strategically placing weeds everywhere around camp, fishing on the Playbuoy, and most importantly Mikey's only win against JG in basketball. We also had memorable experiences out of camp the first four weeks. At the Mainers game, we met the vegan, took trips up to the press box, and rode the elevator. Personally, I had the most fun beach day I have ever had with you guys due to our visits in the deep end of the ocean or our extravagant meal at Splash.

Whether we were parkouring around camp with our Saxon aids and Jamie or biking down that one hill so many times, we gave it all we got at every activity and that made me the proudest counselor ever. Some more proud "father" moments were occurrences like Adam's unbelievable athletic day, Phil and I chugging pitchers of water successfully, Max's superhuman dunk, Danegger's snooze on the floor, and many other remarkable moments. We capped off the four-week mark with an intense soccer game in the rain, which involved the cripples taking the PK's in an intense match and gave Hobert's team the W.

After we had to sadly say goodbye to Francesco and Danegger, we welcomed nine campers to the squad and they made our group a dominant force physically and most importantly, the hilarity was at an all time high.

An early excursion allowed for great group bonding and memorable times. We started off the trip with a long-car ride with Tim and arrived at our first destination, the Basketball Hall of Fame. Some cool moments there were Oliver's purchase of an official whistle, Dylan and Charlie's spectacular announcing, Rodrigo's relentless effort and hustle, Alejandro balling in the virtual reality game, and Peter's three story shot. After that we went back to the campsite and cooked Tim's world famous fajitas. After settling at the campsite, we made the best out of the rainy day and saw The Secret Life of Pets, which turned out to be an amazing movie due to its hilarity and strangely weird comparisons to our group. The next day we woke up early, fueled up with some Dunkin' and hit Six Flags, riding about every single ride multiple times including the virtual reality Superman which was clearly the best. After an afternoon at the park and Mikey's successful win at the entrance Pokémon gym, we went to Walmart . Later that night we took the Hot Seat and bonded as a group and found out who the real Tim Naylor was. Everywhere we went we had incredibly "lit" van rides blasting music with DJ Godbro on the turntables. We then arrived at the white-water rafting places where we all became bros like Doug, Brody, and many other characters. We hit the rapids and did great paddling along the Deerfield River, watched Khalid gracefully fall off the raft, took epic pictures under the bridge, and had a scary encounter with the craziest guide ever who, let's say took splashing and his weakness way too seriously. After that, we got some grub at Mesa Verde, where Hunter made the spiciest burrito and caused his downfall, and after went to Wagon Wheel Country Store to have some ice cream to top off the day. Never been so mad at you guys when almost a fourth of the group ordered vanilla. Never forget it. Then the final day we had an unbelievable paintball sesh which including my dominant first game, Big Los' savage game, and the counselor [plus Joey and George] vs the campers which clearly showed who was in charge of the group. And with that, Friar summer sixteen came to a close.

Khalid – It is clear that you have a strong love for camp and you killed it this summer. Whether we were playing an intense game of basketball or just chilling in the bunk, you were always happy because you were with your group. It was so amazing to watch you mature over this summer and I hope to see you for many more.

Aidan – Even though you came in late, you fit in perfectly with the group. You clearly have a deep connection with all of you group mates and you always tried as hard as you could every day, no matter the activity. Keep coming back.

Hunter – Your constant drive to better yourself and the group was infectious. You always went hard in every activity and pushed your group mates to do the same. It's clear that you truly try to get the most of your time here and I can assure you that your group respects you for that. Keep coming back!

Carlos – Since the first moment you arrived, I had no doubt that the group would accept like you've been here for many years. It didn't matter what you were doing, you were just happy to be with your group. I hope you are able to come back next summer.

Joao – Your fun loving spirit was infectious to everyone around you. You always had a smile on your face and you were excited for every activity. I know that you left sooner than you wanted but you still left a lasting impression on your group and I hope you return to camp next year.

Nate – Even though there seemed to be no end to your questions, you were always energetic. You truly loved being here and you were genuinely excited for each new thing you tried. You were an essential part of the group this year and I'm sure I'll see you back next year.

Peter – It is clear that everyone in the group respects you and you always have a positive attitude no matter what we're doing. You always try to cheer people up when they're down and I have no doubt that you will continue to come back for many years to come.

Crystal – Your easy-going attitude along with your willingness to do each activity makes you such an easy camper to be around. You are always down for any activity and you always have a good time doing it. Your love for camp is obvious and I'm sure you'll be back for many more summers.

George – You are always happy no matter what the group is doing. You are just as comfortable to be going hard in a basketball game or trying to cheer someone up with your unique sense of humor. You are an integral part of the group and I sincerely hope you continue to come back for many years to come.

Francesco – You are one of the most genuine and humble kids I have ever met. You were such a pleasure to have around all the time and were never a problem for the staff. Keep coming back because camp needs more people like you.

Danegger – You are the biggest goofball I have ever met and I always love to clown with you anytime of the day. From your nightly roasts to your constant hilarity you kept the group laughing no matter the circumstance. So glad the group finally got to see the real Jake Danegger.

Max – You are one of the craziest and most sincere kids I have ever met. Everyone thrives of your relentless effort not only at activities but with everything you do. We all love your company and hope you can stay longer next summer because camp is a great place for you.

Phil – You are the biggest noodle I have met and also one of the most mature leaders I have seen at camp Robin Hood. There isn't a moment in the day where I have to tell you to do something because you always doing the right thing and then go above and beyond after that. Camp needs more people like you and you need to keep coming back to have a positive impact on children like you do with the group with your positive attitude.

Rodrigo – I could see you came into camp nervous since it was a foreign environment but right after the first basketball/volleyball period you became one with the Friars. You shined brightly at riflery and wakeboard in and really got to know the group during excursion. Come back next year for longer to experience all the activities!

Dylan – You always seem to surprise the group with your humor and knowledge daily and that what makes you the perfect kid. You find a good balance of knowing when to crack hilarious jokes with the group but also be understanding and consoling of all your bunk mates, which makes you an unbelievable friend.

Luke – You always bring out the best in people, which is unbelievable to see with a group of so many characters. Your respect for the counselors [accepting when your roasting us] shows a testament to the kid you really are. Love you man and keep me updated with music.

Alex – Even the beginning of your camp career was rough with weird days at camp and time in the infirm, you didn't let it define your limited time in The Realm this summer. You made the most out of every activity no matter whether it was your strong suit or if it wasn't your favorite.

Gabe – You are the man and I'm glad that this summer you group finally got to realize it this summer. You are probably the most responsible kid I know in the world but still find time to clown and have tons of fun with your friends. So glad you came out of your shell this summer and can't wait to watch you impact other kids lives with your kindness and selflessness.

Alejandro – We all knew from your first activity you were going to shine in Green & White and that is what you did. No matter the sport you were a dominant force for the green team and even pulled out a hat trick in the soccer game, which was crazy. So glad you got to meet and become a member with the best group in camp.

Lomo – You are the man…period. When you returned to camp this summer you instantly made an impact on the group. You instantly bonded with the group and helped us make many memories. You gave it your all in Green & White and had an amazing war. I hope you keep coming back because camp needs you.

Ethan – I know your summer was cut short but for the time you were here you owned The Realm. From one savage act to the next you brought many laughs to the group. I think I can speak for the entire group when I say you visiting on PVD made the summer much more special. Keep coming back!

FRIARS

Richie – From your killer attitude to your great singing voice you truly are a man of many talents. The spark that you brought into the group really made everyone smile a little more. You are a funny kid and great leader.

Michael Lu – You are one of the funniest kids I have ever met. I will miss having you around everyday to do crazy things and have a laugh with me about whatever we are doing. Over the course of the summer you definitely found a key role in the group and I can't wait to see where the future leads you. We all Luve you!

Godbout – You absolutely killed it this summer for the short time you had here. Your constant battle with Joey for best athlete in the group kept things intense this summer. You were an unbelievable sport in Green & White win or lose. Good luck at your new school, I know you'll do great!

Joey – It's fair to say that you and Godbout are even now. You are one of the nicest kids in the group and you are friends with everyone and you know how to pick someone up when they are down. You're a clear leader in this group and you better keep coming back!

Marc – You always have a smile on your face and are so much fun to be around. Even though you messed up your ankle two days into Green & White you kept fighting hard the whole war, which made it awesome to watch you compete. See you next summer.

Charlie [Steph Curry] – I'm sure wherever you are right now you are laughing and that is the coolest thing about you. The whole summer you, Dylan and the other members of your group cracked jokes constantly and made the best out of any situation.

Harry – As the summer passed by, the group was so excited when they found out the day you were arriving. Your witty humor and knowledge always made everyone laugh. You had an amazing summer and really branched out to become friends with everyone.

Oliver – You are crazy but in the best way. From the skittles you kept in your Tostitos bag to your big night on the slip in slide everything you did was so funny. Can't wait to hear from you during the year. Keep coming back!

To my staff – Thank you for an unforgettable summer. I couldn't have asked for a better dream team. You guys made sure the hilarity never came to a stop and I couldn't have done this without you dudes.

FRIARS 2016 -

You are a dominant force. Take advantage of this magnetic power and take advantage of every moment you have together at camp. You are quickly becoming leaders of boys camp. Thank you for this summer. It was truly the best summer of my life.

Love you dudes.

FORESTERS

Although our summer has come to an end, let's look back at your epic Forester year. From becoming volleyball experts to dunking on everyone in camp and getting a chance to become great role models as Forester aides, we've done it all. Don't be sad that our summer is over,

JUST KEEP SWIMMING.

Remember first arriving at camp and having no idea as to who the majority of your staff are? Remember not letting anyone pass our table in the dining hall until they hit the Dab? DabNation was very popular in our bunk. Remember forcing the Sanford Mainers ball boy to Dab each time he passed us? Remember our crew who finally hit trees – Flug and Benny! Remember one of our first evening activities when we went tubing? David injured his knee and had to turn up to our first barn time late – we treated him like a hero. One of my favorite memories of the summer was when we walked to Cozy Corner, a feat that hadn't been done in at least ten years. Foresters bring back a little bit of old camp. The ice cream was worth it and thankfully we got driven back to camp.

Remember our first installment of Family Feud? Apparently the European Union is a country beginning with U. Can you remember the number one answer for words that follow 'pork'? Remember Goodman and Fuente's bromance when they went through a period of feeding each other lunch? Remember when we pronounced the letter S as TH in honor of Luis and Alfonso? Borat voices were a big theme throughout our summer, fueled by waterfront Ben. Remember our friend from down under, Henry Lewis, the outback guy? Remember the 'Phantom Flusher'? Still unsolved. Remember our scavenger hunt and how not one of you could find a perfect pine cone? Come on guys. Can anyone remember Flash's favorite day of camp? Remember the West End game? Natro was on fire and dropped 16 at the house! We had four Foresters on the team: Natro, Nick, Benny and Meister. Meanwhile, Goodman and Fuente couldn't find the bathroom.

Remember when Billy Chang walked the quad with Henry on his back while completing a Rubik's cube one handed? Remember Connor's late night conversation with DC? For Luis' birthday we all enjoyed eating pizza at the ODT. Remember how Adelman still got 21 overtime, even when we tried to rig it so he didn't get it. Remember when David and Henry got pied? No explanation. Remember Fuente's twin from a rival camp? Remember when Jules joined our group and entertained us with many 'Quotes of the Day' including; "aaaaaaargh", "banana" and "not beach day, just beach day"? Remember our group was sponsored by the underwear company Saxx? Remember when Adelman couldn't bike? Remember 'Make your counselor laugh'? I could hardly breathe from laughing so hard yet Swain barely cracked a smile. Remember on the bus back from the Sanford Mainers game the Lancers, Friars and Foresters singing songs to completion. Remember we killed our dance performance? Also, do you remember chalking our dance, choreographing a whole new dance to the song 'Robots' and then chalking that dance only to return to our original dance all in two periods? Remember our victory at the 15U indoor soccer tournament? Remember playing Broom Ball at Plymouth State against Winaukee? Wait a second…We had a blast that day, though. We found out that ice is slippery and we met CJ the Plug. Some of us saw three bears in the middle of the road that day. Beach day came and we all had an amazing day, can anyone remember who won beach day? Remember playing wind ball on the beach? Remember when Fuente nursed Goodman back to health? Remember when Meister kept shouting "Hazard" in an English accent? Remember when Fuente and I shared a tube during tubing? We thought it was going to sink!

Remember when we saved Private Ryan? Remember the Handball tournament? Remember everyone throughout the summer trying to get the perfect Upper Thigh Tan(UTT). R.I.P to Bruce the Bat. Remember Bobby, Dobby, Robbie and Gobbie? Nick running past barn time like an alien was one of my favorite memories of the summer. Remember when Adelman robbed Goodman? Remember when Goodman robbed Adelman? Remember when we were challenged to a game of Quidditch? That was one of the best challenges I have ever seen. Remember Steal the Bacon? We had a very spirited game of Steal the Bacon followed by swimming and jumping off of the tower.

Green and White broke with airplanes, firetrucks, and ATVs with Dick and Chuck! We had some very competitive sports including volleyball, softball, soccer and gaga. Remember horseshoes? Catch a Moose-Game Over. Can you remember Billy's favorite pizza topping? Woof. Remember Benny and JG's duet? IT WASN'T A DUET! Remember our impromptu visit to the sandbar before dinner? We played volleyball, tackled each other and dragged each other down into the drop off. You need some Curry! Does anyone remember our sanitation station? Remember playing softball early in the morning on our last day?

FORESTERS

I can honestly say this has been the best summer of my life. I know I was new to the whole GL role but you all taught me so much and helped me along the way. I hope your Forester summer was everything you wanted it to be and more.

Tyler Adelman – After six years in The Realm, you have become such a key player in the group. Not only are you a baseball fanatic, you are a great friend. You are reliable, funny and dependable, and you are loved by your group.

William Chang – You manage to be so smart and such a delight to have in the bunk. You always keep us laughing and up to date on exactly what you're thinking, and your humor is greatly appreciated by all.

Ben Flug – Even though we didn't have as much time with you as we would have liked, we cherished the time we had with you. You're an unbelievable athlete and it was amazing to see you during Green and White. Too bad they didn't have lacrosse.

Nathan Fuente – You are a (mostly) gentle giant and you fill our hearts with joy. You managed to always keep us laughing all summer.

Ethan Gimbel – You kept us on our toes with your quick tongue and up to date with your hip dance moves. You were a great head of the fishing department and a great friend.

Jake Goodman – You really became a leader this summer. Whether it was running mountain biking or learning to actually play volleyball, you took on everything with determination. You are a great part of this group and we can always count on you for an entertaining story.

Conor Marsh – Being a new camper can be challenging, but you slid in with ease and fit in right away. I can't wait to see you back next summer.

Kyle Meister – I'm sorry I couldn't talk to you more about soccer even though I'm British but I hope I made up for it with basketball knowledge. You are an amazing friend to everyone in your group and you always make an effort to be with the group as a whole.

Jake Rosenthal – You are a joy to have in the bunk. You're incredibly smart and sensible but know when to have fun and let loose. I wasn't surprised when your peers voted you to be their Green and White captain because you are such a model camper.

Benny Sedlock – After only three years at camp you have become such a role model, leader and expert of all things camp. You are an integral part of the group and I can't wait to see you lead boys camp next summer.

Pablo Zubillaga – Even after coming late into the summer, you integrated with the group seamlessly. You interact with both peers and staff amazingly. You are funny and selfless.

What up Boys.

It's me, PC Principal and welcome to the summer of being PC and making sure that everyone's privilege is checked. So now kick back, relax, and make sure the various pets we have aren't crawling around in our bunk.

Remember opening day and being very surprised that it was me greeting you at the infirm instead of Podl. Thanks guys, really appreciated it. Chang being a wiz in poker and stealing everyone's chips – guys if he bets, it means he has good cards so just fold. We started off with six and slowly but surely our PC fraternity grew day by day, literally day by day. Where is Skye? Is Grant coming? We still don't know. On opening day, we all anticipated a grand entrance from our fellow members but quickly realized only Lomedico and Jesus were the only ones coming that day, making us the only group to not have a camper on the New York or Cleveland buses. Lit. We made our presence felt on day one as the tradition of Frat Friday was continued in a perfect fashion. Our first EA served the group well as Schneider, Ace and Chang went yard at home run diamond for the first time. When Juan, Andres, Tomas, and Sergi entered The Realm, our small cabin quickly turned into a United Nations convention with three different languages going on at once.

Remember hiking up Green Mountain with the TPJs against the Tumblers and Scribes? What about the "optional" mountain hike with Scribes and four Lancers? The slow group took their time as they completed the hike in five hours and forty minutes while the fast group was down the mountain by 5:30 instead of 7:00. Remember how Shafer and James had to carry Liv down the mountain, showing the camp what real gentleman you both are.

Water, Earth, Fire, Air, THEN everything changed when the fire nation attacked. Remembering the 16U tournament at IA proved how diverse each member of the group truly is? Tomas being an animal in goal making impossible save after impossible save, which then ended after a handball in the box that resulted in one of my favorite interactions: the banter between Tomas and Andres in Spanish. Pietro, Tommaso and Pietro showing off why team Italy was superior in soccer than team Spain both on the field and on the world stage. Sorry Spain, thanks for playing.

Remember our trip up Katahdin? Remember arriving at the campsite and being surrounded by thousands upon thousands of bugs, saying bye to DeAndre, Chace battling for territory on the mountain, where the earf at? What about how everyone made it to the summit in record time?

Remember the whole sugar or milk debate, no one understanding what James says, Dini's impressions, Pietro's long and heartfelt speech? Or how Zubi longed for van rides, Joey has a release as quick as Klay Thompson's. Remember Jorge's first night at The Realm? He was greeted with a beautiful thunderstorm followed by everyone in their underwear after mudsliding on the soccer field. A strange way to begin your first ever trip to America isn't it Jorge? Remember Nagini? Did we ever find him? Remember our play date with IA. I unfortunately couldn't be in attendance so Rybo went along for the fun. The DEEEEP TWOOO followed by the whole team receiving a technical foul for celebration, AWESOME. Remember the downfall of Skye and finding out the PG was now British?

Remember when Sergi was able to stop me from snoring, the Italians' last night, team Europe vs America and Europe always prevails, Alderman's sick rejection in basketball, Lomedico's split during Flashdance, and catching Pokémon whenever we can, Zubi's last second heroics at Fryeberg but unfortunately doesn't score again for the rest of the tournament, or how Sergi was the real GL? Don't chop at it, it's not a sword! You're not a sword!!!

Remember our intense game of soccer in the rain with all the parents on PVD? It is truly one of my favorite days of camp because everyone gets to see where everyone comes from. You are all so much like your parents it's crazy. Going big at Lobster Trap by ordering a collective six pounds of lobster and devouring it all. After all the fine dining we brought it back to the bunk had an epic rap battle that only lasted 5 minutes. Woof.

After the great weekend with all the parents, we packed up our bags and headed to the Cape for three days. Remember stopping at Five Guys and Whole Foods for lunch? Different ends of the spectrum but heck, it's real food. Griebel tries to buy a frog but realizes it will cost him $200, upgrading from niguno to niguno attack, and Shafer finds a new friend in his pet pineapple Alfred and flying pollo and Nemo keychains. Later that night we saw The Secret Life of Pets old school style by attending a drive in. RIP Ricky!! The first full day arrives and surfing was on the schedule. Unfortunately, the surfing consisted of minimal to no waves and seaweed, lots and lots of seaweed. The surfing turned into everyone throwing seaweed at each other, thankfully no one got hurt, especially the instructors. After a long day of crushing fresh waves, or not so fresh, we hit P-Town for the night. Ace finds the cheeseburger of his dreams and proclaims he can now rest in peace then we all hit up Electra for a show that we all will never forget. Best Bette Midler impression ever. Tomas gets too touristy for his own good. The final day of excursion we decided to not travel far and play mini golf on one of the boofest courses ever. The ridges on the holes where on faced up, how are you supposed to get in the whole if the ball just falls down the hills? After which we said goodbye to Andres and Tomas and headed back to hype surrounding color war.

SAXONS

Remember how we tricked everyone after Founders Night with our fake break on the basketball court and leading everyone to the soccer field only to see that nothing was going on? Everyone thought it was real, great plan boys. Then during fourth period the next day it finally broke with a plane flying over camp with a message reading Green & White 2016. Chang and Shafer are captains, Lomo and Ace are co's, making it a perfect way to spend your last Green & White as a group. Those five days allowed you all to show the camp just how competitive you are from flag football to danish longball. Remember Schneider's seemingly impossible corner kick snipe followed by Greibel's chip over PG to send into penalty kicks which ended due to some fine goal keeping from PG or how Zubi wasn't BIC volleyball, the 30 point spread in basketball, Joey's goatee? Remember the Danish slang made by the judges: OOPS and UBR or how Chang just wasn't a human being throughout the five days and Green Saxons show their creativity by creating, leading, a winning a night five cheer. Never been more proud of you all. WE GOT THE ZUC, WE GOT THE ZUC, then I stole it. It was a hard fought war by both sides but in the end, Paranormal Green defeated the White Tribe by a mere 86 points.

After Green & White was all over, we gathered as a group once again to absolutely crush the remaining four days. These four days were an opportunity to show camp what the Saxon group is really about and you guys didn't disappoint. Remember the infamous kayak battle royale, Skye hopping over the fence, the flying frog, and IWA at the sandbar? The Spanish Mafia was finally defeated. Then came Saxon speeches. You all really showed how much camp has made an impact on you and getting that message out in a five minute speech isn't easy. Everyone shares a love for this place from TPJ to Saxon and it was awesome hearing what you all had to say. I know all of boys camp was listening. You left everything you had out on the fields, in the lake, in the dining hall, on the quad etc. and I could not be more proud of you guys. Thank you for an unbelievable summer and remember: camp never ends.

Pietro – THE ROCK!!! It was awesome to see you gel with the rest of the European squad day after day. Your curiosity about what's going on around camp is a strength, one which I wish I had. Don't be afraid to step out of your comfort zone like you did at camp because everyone will see who you really are and what you have to offer.

Tommaso – Hey Oli, welcome back to The Realm. It was awesome to see you click with the group after a few years away from camp. I know it was intimidating for you to return not knowing if the same people were here and that they were close with each other and I have the utmost respect for you with how you carried yourself the weeks you were here.

Francesco – Coming to America isn't easy but I truly believe you handled yourself in great fashion, especially with a crazy group like the one we have. One of my favorite parts about the summer was watching you play basketball and proving to the group that basketball is not just an American sport. Remember to always be loud and watch your surroundings. Hopefully I'll get to meet up with rest of team Italy in a couple of years.

Sergi – Mr. GL, our group's sanity. Your maturity really shows just how great a person you are and I really enjoyed talking about real life with you. Whenever the group was wild, you were calm and I could always count on you do something if I needed it. Definitely look into attending college in America, I think you'll really enjoy it.

Grant – I'm really happy you decided to come back even though it was for a short time. The group really missed you the first couple weeks and when you came, the energy within the group increased. Keep coming back because your love for camp is strong and you'll be a great counselor.

Chang – You definitely established yourself as the dominant athlete during Green & White, surpassing Greibel. You are the true definition of leading from the back which in some cases is more important than having be all about you. Your love for camp is undoubtable, your love for the group is unmatched, you are a camp person whether you know it or not. Keep coming back and don't be afraid to voice your opinion because you have the respect from the whole camp.

Juan – You remind me a lot of Jorge from my group. You share a love of camp that differs from the rest of the Spanish Mafia. It was a great experience being your counselor this summer after knowing Pepe for a long time. You love camp and camp loves you. I hope to see you back next summer because I know you'll make a great counselor.

Shafer – You were my first camper to arrive as a group leader and I enjoyed every second we spent with each other this summer. Your competitiveness on and off the field is a characteristic I wish I had. Don't worry as much about the little things in life because at the end of the day they don't make as big of an impact on you. I can't wait to see you back next summer killing it on staff.

Lomo – You are the OG son. I don't know if I should thank you or be upset with you for starting the whole dad thing. I'm so happy you decided to come for the full seven weeks this summer because you got to see what camp is like from opening day to the final hours of camp. I still don't know how you managed to find Cupcakke and I'm still shocked about how you managed to learn all the lyrics. Keep doing you, and don't let people get in the way of things you want to do.

Skye – Our relationship got so much stronger as the summer went on. Your love for the people around you is strong and it's something you should embrace as you embark on moving schools in the fall. I have no doubt that you will be able to be the person you want to be at your new school.

Dini – You're a wild man, plain and simple. You bring so much energy each day the group feeds off that energy. I know you wished you could've stayed longer but the time that you spent here made a great impact on the group. I was happy to see you stay after PVD because you got to experience a different form of camp from the first four weeks.

Andres – You were always able to put a smile on my face. Your kindness is buried under your rugby body but when you find it, it's clear you're a great person and a better friend. I was so happy to see you last summer and even more ecstatic to find out you were coming back this summer. You took Saxon summer by the horns and absolutely crushed it. Hopefully we will meet up in Spain in near future but for now let's keep in touch.

Tomas – You're one crazy dude. There is no fear in you and that will go a long way for the rest of your life. You were on the more mature kids in the group even though you and the Mafia always for some reason need to scream at each other from a meter away to converse. Definitely think about going to college in America because I think it will be such a great experience for you to be around different people for a longer period of time.

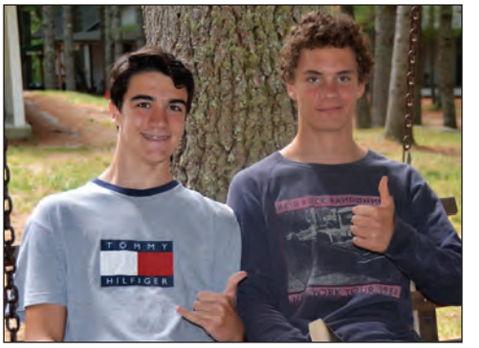

SAXONS

Joey – Your personality is unbelievable. I always felt we shared similar traits except for me never going to Starbucks. Iced lemon cakes will hopefully live up to hype. You absolutely crushed aiding this summer whether it was with the Squires or running basketball periods. I think you should come back on staff next summer because I know you'll be great with the kids; you have such drive and determination.

Zubi – I've never met a more goofy kid in my life. You always seemed to know how to lift the spirits of everyone in the group at the right moments. Your presence on camp is a dominant one and everyone in camp looks up to you even if you don't know it. Always remember that your everyday self has an influence on the rest of camp, and I can't wait to see you on staff next summer.

Pablo – Watching from afar, it seems like you know everyone in camp whether it's a Scribe or a TPJ. Your people skills are the best thing about you and they will carry on with you for the rest of your life. You always found time to talk with everyone in camp at meals or on the quad and made them feel important to you. Always stay true to who you are because it will only be beneficial to you later in life.

Jorge – Being brand new to camp and jumping into camp two weeks into the summer is hard for anyone and you didn't let that bother you. You're a very outgoing human being and I think you understood what this place has to offer and took full advantage of it. You brought a lot to the group adding to our diverse selection of personalities.

Jesus – You fit in with the group flawlessly having it be your first year at camp. You saw what camp had to offer and crushed it, especially with aiding. I know all the TPJs missed you after you left because you made such an impact on their summer.

PG – Being positive is something that always seemed to come easy to you even when times were tough within the group. No matter the circumstances, you stayed positive through it which made it so much easier on me and I cannot thank you enough. I'm very excited and hopeful that you be back on staff next summer.

Alderman – You go about your business in a quiet fashion which is a very unique trait especially in these times that we live in. Your respect and love for camp is impeccable and you showed that while you were aiding. I think going into the summer you were the most ready to be a counselor and I still think this. I know school got in the way of you not being able to stay for the full summer but don't let that affect you coming back next summer because camp needs personalities like yours.

Suna – You are by far one of the funniest and most clever kids I've met. Your witty humor always put a smile on everyone's faces. You jumped right back into this summer as if you were here last summer and shows your true character. The group was so thrilled to have you back their final summer and you took advantage of every moment.

Schneider – Even though you came as a Lancer, your knowledge and love for camp tells a different story. You always had a smile on your face when I was your aide in 2013 and that same smile was shown in 2016. You have a quiet but confident presence.

Ace – I think you summed up what camp really is perfectly when saying it's a place to show your true colors. It was a blessing to see who you really are during Green & White. The competitive spirit lives inside you and should always be shown. Whenever you have something to say the whole group listens and it just shows that even a quieter person can have a loud influence on an entire group. Keep coming back because you are a camp person and the world needs camp people.

Griebel – You came into camp as a Forester and took it by storm. Even though you weren't here when you younger, what really mattered is that you ended up here at some point in your life and you delivered that to all of boys camp. Your carefree attitude is one that every 16 year old should have because nothing matters to you but being with your fellow group mates. You were a great aide, and an even better friend.

James & Josh – I know being with oldest group in boys camp took you both by surprise but I think you both adjusted the situation very well and I deeply appreciate that. The kids loved being around you and I know you both loved being around the kids. Thank you for putting up with my disorganization, I know it could be frustrating trying to follow a 19 year old kid who's very new to being a group leader. I hope you will be back next year.

saxons –

I just want to say thank you for staying true to who you and not allowing anything to get in the way having the best summer of your lives. I want to illustrate that this was my best summer in my eleven-year career at The Realm. You made me appreciate what it is like to be a staff member here and you gave me such strength this summer. It's hard to believe that I was in your shoes just three short years ago, and I was so thrilled to be given you all to guide through your final year as campers. Everything happens for reason whether it's good or bad. You made me feel like a 16 year old kid again and for that I'm in debt to you guys forever.

I love you.

I love you all.

Pardon me, are you Aaron Burr, Sir?

HOOOO HOOOO HOO HOO HOO…Listen up Jestie Besties! It is time to put down your cards, turn down the music, and stop the dancing because right now it's time to take a trip down memory lane through the best summer of your lives…

Remember the first night all of you got to camp, hugging each other from the ten months apart, and finding out you got the best staff in the world (#blessed)? Those 13 smiling faces that couldn't stop talking from the moment you came together. Remember when we played the web game, learned all of our similarities (there are too many to count), and ended the night by tangling Sassy in a giant pile of yarn? Each of you had over ten nicknames and I still am confused where they came from. From the first night I already knew that Jester summer would be a crazy and wild ride.

Remember our first day on camp and having gaga as our first activity? We danced through the whole day in our rainbow outfits and clearly stood out as the brightest group on camp. Remember when we were the FIRST group on camp to get candy canteen and it was right after Sunday Sundaes? I think you guys all had a severe sugar rush. Remember when we went on a mountain hike on only day three, hiking to the top with no complaints and only a few minor injuries, and meeting Carl on the mountain? Remember singing so loud on the way home you almost broke Casey's eardrums? Then going to McDonalds and all of you crying because you don't like fast food!

Remember when we were in love with Hamilton and memorized every lyric, screaming and dancing at the top of our lungs! Pardon me, are you Aaron Burr, sir? I will never be satisfied, I will never be satisfied! So cultured you all are and Millie is already an expert! Remember our "Girl Party" dance party on the basketball court? A couple nights later, sleeping at the outpost and making s'mores all night. A few days later when we woke you guys up and led you around camp, knocking into only a few trees, and eating waffles by the lake. We even ended up taking a quick morning dip in our pajamas, or should I say not in our pajamas!

The next day was Fourth of July and we all dressed up in crazy outfits and ate so much jello, ice cream, and funnel cake that you almost puked? Sassy, Lily, and Bella were covered head to toe in powdered sugar and even dumped it all over Swoody! Remember when we won a movie in the cottage and ended up watching "Hairspray" while we cuddled in blankets, eating tons of popcorn and candy, and singing and dancing to all of the songs? I think that will forever be my favorite movie!

Remember the camper talent show? Linley killing it on the guitar, Rya singing like an angel, and Sophie doing amazingly in her musical number? Everyone wished they were a Jester! The week after when we showed everyone who the most talented girls group was in the "Do You Think You Can Dance" show? I definitely feel better when I'm dancing! Remember when Mary was supposed to leave on the 9th of July but we ended up keeping her for four extra days? I don't think she minded! We went to the Mainer's game with the rest of junior camp and had so much fun drinking soda and eating candy!

Remember all of our super exciting evening activities? Cookie decorating and eating pounds of icing, finishing the night by surprising the kitchen staff with hand decorated (gourmet) cookies! Another night doing water aerobics with only the best, Swoody and JuCo. Burning those calories while also doing our favorite dance moves! Remember greasy watermelon, our challenges with the Squires and Tumblers, tubing, and even our fashion show when Linley, Subs, Lily, and Alex were dressed as cave men and Olivia looked like the best mime I've ever seen! And let's not forget Dani as a round ball!

Remember when we packed up our bags and sunscreen and headed two hours away for beach day! Everyone was scared it would rain but it ended up being a beautiful day. You all stuffed your faces with ice cream and candy like you've never seen food before! After a great day, riding home in sandy shorts and sun screened faces, we rushed to cookout to get burgers before the rain hit. We ended the night showing off our creativity as we decorated and painted Jester shirts that took nearly three days to dry because you loaded it up with puffy paint!

Remember when we surprised you with pizza barn, chips, and soda at the waterfront? Everyone getting at least three slices and spilling a majority of the soda in the sand within the first couple minutes. Dancing to Hamilton (per usual) and our other favorite songs while all the groups getting out of lunch thought we were crazy. I mean we are crazy, but in a good way! The next day, the brass surprising us with a delicious cookie cake just for the Jesters because we didn't have any birthdays, eating our huge slices and the kitchen staff snagging the rest.

Remember when Swoody left for a week (saddest week of my life!)? Lily jumped on her bed and the entire bed collapsed! Making the bed and pretending like nothing had happened. Sorry Swoody! Later learning that "Bunking It" was our favorite activity and spending an entire period non-stop watching paint videos? Those noises though, mmm! A couple days later having Robin Hood Gives Back Day, learning so much about ourselves, and doing yoga on the quad! Celebrating the one and only mice and lice day with Sam Sol as our cheese!

JESTERS

Remember parents visiting day? Everyone was so excited to finally see their parents and siblings. Spending the day doing gymnastics, soccer, and arts and crafts. Lily's mom bringing her tons of presents, loads of candy, and the famous wubba bubba balls!? Popping the first one within two days! That night, having a huge candy party and finally getting in our well deserved pajama jump. Our last activity with the four weekers before saying our sad goodbyes the next morning.

Remember when we played Family Feud and it started down pouring! We sprinted inside at the last minute, our doors swinging wide open from the wind, and sticking our heads out from the balcony to get soaking wet? Remember human sundaes? Smothering each of you in pounds of ice cream, whipped cream, and chocolate sauce. Wrestling each other in the slippery mess, mushing ice cream in each other's hair, and then ending the night with nice long showers to clean ourselves up. The smell of molding sundaes didn't leave our bunk for weeks! Remember our treasure hunt? Leading you all around camp and then ending at the gas pump for a quick trip to Cozy Corner with DC?

Remember excursion and leaving for two days of constant fun? Starting our trip out at the Escape Rooms which could possibly be the most amazing experience I've ever had. All of us working together to unlock each owl clue. HOOOO HOOOO HOO HOO HOO! Sam Sol's knowledge of morse code unlocking the key and breaking us out free, beating the Squires by only minutes! Right after, heading over to the Saco River to lazy tube all day long. Going to Walmart and watching you all consume bags and bags of powder sugar donuts.

We finished the day at the campsite with the Tumblers! Eating guac and chips, Brie cheese, and steak for dinner, only the best for you guys! Surprise! That same night we packed you in the vans and to the movies we went! Seeing "Finding Dory" which was literally the most amazing film in history, all of your counselors sobbing the entire time (including Chris!). Going back to the campsite for loads and loads of delicious s'mores.

Remember day two of our excursion, the final day but just as exciting as the first. Waking up early at the campsite and eating Rice Krispies and yogurt for breakfast. Some of you even making fajitas for breakfast and watching your counselors creating the first ever S'mores Quesadilla! Packing our bags up and driving two hours to Fun Town Splash Town USA with the Squires! Having a blast on the roller coasters with Yensi! Driving back to camp and finally getting the shower. We were all so tired but still ending the night with an awesome game of infection!

Remember making it back to camp just in time for Green & White! Going to dodgeball but just sitting in the grass instead waiting for the break to happen!? Hearing something in the distance and all the sudden seeing the giant banner wave across the sky! Finally it broke! Splitting into our two teams right away, ready for night zero and the junior camp tug! Captain Sabrina and Co-Captain Michi for the mighty White Tribe and Captain Sam Sol and Co-Captain Linley for the great Paranormal Green. You guys having amazing sportsmanship for all five days! Killing it in every sport, the spelling bee, and the talent show and ending the week with Linley rocking out on the drums on song night! So proud of you girl!

Remember GL swap day? I hope you didn't miss me too much! You guys having Josh for the day and showing him how the Jesters do it. That night having a giant slip n slide across the home run diamond. Getting lots of visitors including the Scribes, Flash, and even the kitchen staff!? Us dumping soap all over the tarp, seeing who had the best slides, and spraying each other with the water fountain hoses?

Remember our last evening activity, or should I say activities? Starting the night with a quick game of camper hunt, leading you guys to the waterfront, and having homemade Cozy Corner sundaes while we watched the sunset? Remember when we gave you all paper plate awards that completely matched your personalities and then you making some for us? Remember ending the night with pajama jumping, everyone getting in their last jumps? It was a perfect night to wrap up two months' worth of fun.

Remember our last full day of activities? Saying goodbye to Swoody but wiping our tears away so we could enjoy our last moments as Jesters in The Realm. Getting a stacked day and having an amazing waterfront period, having a blast jumping off the tower thirty times in a row. Remember Scribe speeches and listening to the leaders or girls camp end their camp careers as we watched the Freedom sunset behind them? The next day, packing up our bags and cleaning up our bunk, going to awards night and watching all of you munchkins win your well deserved awards. Our last night, cuddling up in our sleeping bags on the porch, watching a movie while eating pizza. What a perfect way to end our perfect summer.

Remember when Sassy wasn't biting people, Bella didn't have a secret talent, Sabrina wasn't killing it in every sport, Sophie wasn't traveling the world, Mary wasn't smiling, Linley wasn't doing her best hip dance, Millie wasn't singing Hamilton, Leni didn't want a hug, Bella wasn't pretending to be a wild animal, Rya didn't care about making everyone happy, Sabinna liked spiders, Avery's area was messy, Dani and Alex weren't long lost sisters, Olivia wasn't making someone laugh, Lily wasn't eating candy, Sam Sol wasn't flexible, Michi wasn't doing her dance moves, and Aviva wasn't looking fashionable? Because I sure don't!

Mary – You are the light of the group! You always make everyone around you happy and your constant smile spreads across everyone around you! I loved getting to know you this summer and even though you only stayed two weeks, I think everyone can agree that you made this summer so special and fun!

You were never scared to be yourself and I loved that about you! Keep coming back, because I can't wait to see what to see what else you will bring to The Realm!

Bella – I think everyone loved getting to know your wild side this summer. You were so silly and sweet and could always make anyone in the group smile. Your spunky personality was one of a kind and I am so lucky to have gotten to see it. Keep coming back because I don't know what our group would do without a Bella like you!

Rya – I am so impressed with your constant love and affection for every person you meet. You genuinely care about everyone around you and will go out of your way to make them happy. I'll always miss your constant hugs, smiles, and encouragement. Thank you for making every camper feel at home this summer, they will never forget it!

Sassy – You may have the biggest heart and most contagious smile I have ever seen. You are a huge sweetheart who anyone can go to for a laugh. Whenever I was feeling down or needed a lift, I knew I could go to you for a hug and a giggle and it would instantly light up my day. You had such a positive impact on the group.

JESTERS

Millie – You're one of the most well rounded people I have ever met. You are so mature yet so fun and I don't think I saw you without a smile on your face once this summer. You have had the best attitude and spirit out of anyone and I want to say thank you for helping me with everything I needed this summer. You made every activity we did fun and enjoyable without ever once complaining. You are so beautiful inside and out. Never change! I can't wait to see Hamilton with you this year!

Avery – You might be a tiny girl but you have a big personality and a giant heart! You never let anyone get down or feel sad about anything and if they do, you were always there to cheer them up. You are so grown up but always know the perfect time to be a kid and goof around. I miss your giggling and kind spirit. Keep doing you girl!

Dani – It is honestly hard to believe that this summer was your first. You completely meshed in with the group from the first day you got here and you instantly shined as a leader. Your easy-going demeanor, constant positivity, and love for camp and for your friends made every day fun and light. You are a beautiful person inside and out who always cares for others before herself. I am so proud of you and everything you accomplished in just two short weeks. Never change!

Olivia – I am so proud to say that over just three weeks you gained such a level of independence and confidence that you will carry with you forever. You are a role model in every sense. Your leadership, friendship, enthusiasm, and spirit will forever hold this group together. I am so happy you gave camp a try because camp will forever love you.

Alex – You may be a year younger than the rest in our group, but no one would ever know. With your charismatic personality and love for camp, you will forever shine under the Freedom sun. You eat, sleep, and breathe camp and everyone around you feels it too. Every girl in the group will forever be thankful for your constant love and comfort. You hold this group together, and don't you ever forget that.

Sabrina – I will never understand how you are so perfect at everything you do. Whatever activity we have, you never failed to try your best and give it your all. There is nothing that could stop you from following your dreams and I will always admire your determination and courage. Yet as athletic as you are, you are able to balance your competitive side with a modest, supportive, and fun loving personality. I can see your love for camp radiating off of you and I don't think that will ever change. Never stop coming back.

Sabinna – Your determination is commendable. You came in to our group and made friends instantly, without hesitation. Not only are you an incredible athlete but you try so hard in absolutely everything you do. You won't let anything stop you from doing what you think is right and it's something I idolize about you. I learned so much from you this summer and I will miss your smiles and cuddles throughout the year. Keep being the beautiful girl you are.

Lily – The group clown but yet the leader of our group. Your goofy and crazy personality keeps the group smiling yet your charm and determination leaves every camper with admiration for you. You may have a wild side but in the best sense. Thank you for being such a role model for those around you and for never being scared to be yourself. I wasn't kidding when I said you will save the world one day, I truly believe it.

Sam Sol – How you manage to be an athlete, singer, and incredible person all at once I have no idea. You are a tremendous leader and role model of this group and I know that every Jester looks up to you, just like I do. You are one of the kindest and most genuine young ladies I have ever met and I know everyone in our group appreciated your friendship and constant love.

Linley – You are wise beyond your years. I honestly would never know you were ten years old because you are always there for me with the best advice and help. You are so mature for your age yet you always know the right time to have fun. You have been an incredible friend and camper to me this summer and I am going to miss your advice, humor, and hip dancing. Keep spreading your love and using that big heart you have.

Michi – Where do I even begin?! You are one of the funniest, mushiest, silliest, cutest, and most positive people I have ever met. No matter what the situation is, you do everything with a smile and a laugh and it truly rubs off on everyone around you. The summer would not have been the same if it didn't have all of your giggles. Since the beginning, you brought a layer of humor and silliness to our already goofy group.

Leni – Since the day you got here, I have never seen a more happy and light hearted girl. You instantly brought sunshine to our bunk and to my life. The constant hugs, compliments, and encouragement kept me going and made each day with you so special. You have a genuine love for those around you and have this unique gift of finding the good in everyone you meet. Never change your sweetness!

Aviva – I have never seen such an independent and wise young lady. From the first day I met you, I could tell your intelligence level was unmatched. Even so, you try your hardest at everything you do and constantly have a positive attitude, even if it isn't your favorite activity or sport. You are so caring and nice to everyone no matter the situation. Thank you for having such a positive impact on our group this summer!

To my Staff – I don't even know where to begin. From the moment I found out this was my team, I could not ask for anything more. I was so blessed to get the four happiest and most fun loving group of people out there. Within two months, you guys became my best friends and kept me going day after day. I will never be able to thank you for all the love, help, and support. I wouldn't change a thing. Thank you for the best summer of my life.

To my Jestie Besties –

I will forever cherish each and every one of your unique smiling faces. You guys were able to show me the joys of being a kid again. You taught me to live with no regrets and never be afraid to be your silliest self because life is just too short. All of your hugs and encouragement made every day for me feel like a dream. I had the most amazing summer of my life, and it is all thanks to you. You are each perfect and beautiful inside and out and I would not change a thing about any of you. My one piece of advice, love camp and camp will love you right back. Never change and enjoy every minute you have in the most magical place on earth…

AYE-OH LET'S BOW!

Bows, Bows count off!! Kill your Snapchat streaks, stop posting Instagrams, put the Polaroid cameras down and let me take you back to the most amazing summer.

Remember our first evening activity… putting fun facts in balloons, mixing the balloons up, popping them and guessing everyone's fun fact? We had a rocking first week; everyone passed their sixteen laps with ease, we played a great game of camper hunt, paraded around the dining hall with applesauce and olives for Evin's birthday, and fell in love with the senior waterfront.

Our second week was kicked off by an intense challenge of bombardment against the Archers. We took Mount Potash by storm and inhaled our first Cozy Corner of the summer. After weeks of hard work, it finally paid off when our talent show dance was amazing; it was awesome watching you all work together and sticking to the status quo.

Mini Green & White showed how ready you all were for color war. It was such a close war with a final score of 59.5 to 60.5! Ending the day at the outpost and listening to the songs you wrote showed how much you love camp, which is so special at such a young age. The alma mater brought tears to everyone's eyes. What better way to relax after such an exciting day than a day at the beach! Beach day was so much fun like usual. We all ate so much candy; I thought everyone was going to be sick. We made it back to camp and had cookout just in time to beat the storm. The next night was the evening activity you had been waiting for all summer: we finally went PJUMING!!! It was worth the wait.

HAPPY BOW BIRTHDAY!!!! We kicked the day off with breakfast cookie cake and ended it with M&M pizza at Pizza Barn with Woody. I'm so happy to have shared one of my Scribe group traditions with you and I hope you continue it and come up with some of your own traditions over the years. Challenging the TPJs to gaga was adorable, and of course we came out with a win. I loved stargazing and having a COT (circle of trust) with all of you. I hope that you continue having COTs every summer. Who could forget the time that we played the messiest game of gaga of all time? What started with kickball at the homerun diamond quickly turned into a game of gaga in a pit full of water and mud. Although our paint party didn't last very long, it turned into a night full of epic lip-syncs.

Four weeks flew by in the blink of an eye and then all the sudden we were performing our stellar talent show dance for your parents at the PVD talent show. Of course, PVD cookies were as good as ever this year. I enjoyed meeting all of your parents and had a great day. We were sad to say goodbye to Isabel but couldn't have been more excited to have Reggie and Helen join us for the last two and a half weeks of the summer. To kick off the second half of camp, we all had so much fun playing Hunger Games. Sneaking out late at night and pranking the archers was epic, and we totally got them. The next night, pajama jumping was followed by a sunset candy party at the waterfront when…surprise…go pack for EXCURSION! Whales Tales water park, campsite for the rest of the night…JK we're going to a drive in movie! Finding Dory was definitely the best movie we saw all summer. What better way to start the next day than fire cooked apple turnovers and early morning s'mores. Then we were off to Monkey Trunks, a delicious lunch, yummy ice cream, great shopping, and mini golf. After a fun-filled two days, we were happy to be back at camp and join in the Green & White hype.

Three days later, while playing football with Woody…Green & White!!! All of sudden a plane zoomed above our heads with a banner reading "Camp Robin Hood Green & White." We tried to chase the plane but ended up sprinting in circles around camp. Finally we followed a cop car and fire truck to the barn where judges appeared and captains were announced. Ella and Hillary led the Paranormal Green while Sydney and Ginsberg were at the helm of the White Tribe. I couldn't have been prouder of all of your intensity, hard work and sportsmanship throughout the war.

We did not waste any time during our last four days of the summer. Remember snapple caps, human sundaes, star gazing at the rink while listening to your counselor's scribe speeches, and an epic kitchen raid.

Remember when…Larisa wasn't reading, Aja wasn't smiling, Joey wasn't being funny, Grace didn't have a super cool life, Isabel slept past 6:30 am, Hilary wasn't being a little Lainey, Mia's hair wasn't perfectly French braided, Morgan wasn't being a mooshie, Lily C wasn't tearing up the sports fields, Lily D was causing trouble, Ginsberg wasn't Fabio, Goldman wasn't killing it on the soccer field, Ella wasn't talking about potatoes, Lia's outfit wasn't on point, Julia was being mean, Hanna wasn't laughing, Helen wasn't being crazy, Elizabeth didn't have a giant family on camp, Regina's dance moves weren't killer, Maddy wasn't being super sweet, Sydney was a bad singer, Cate knew where bacon came from, Ava was being appropriate, Alana's bed didn't look perfect, Maggie was high-maintenance, Grace wasn't killing it during lip syncs?…WE DON'T.

Larisa – I'm so happy you decided to come to camp this summer! Your connection to camp was clear from the beginning. Hearing about your family's relation to camp was awesome. You were comfortable the moment you got to camp, and eased right into the group. I can't wait to see you next summer!

Aja – I was happy when you came to camp a day early. You helped us get the bunk ready for your 20 other bunkmates; I don't think we could've done it without you! You always had a positive attitude and were willing to put your all into the activities. Thank you for being so easygoing and lending a helping hand.

Joey – Mooo! Your sense of humor was greatly missed after you left. Your self-confidence allowed you to shine this summer and inspire everyone around you to be themselves. I hope you keep coming back; camp is the right place for you. I can't wait to see you grow up in The Realm.

BOWS

Grace – You're such an integral part of the group. It seems like you've been to camp a lot longer than just 2 summers for 3 weeks. Your humble attitude is special and allows everyone to feel close to you. I hope you keep coming back, and continue to stay for longer the group needs you.

Isabel – My bunkmate! I loved waking up to your smiling face every morning. You have the kindest heart and spirit; I truly don't think that you have a mean bone in your body. I hope that you keep coming back to camp, I don't know if there are many sweeter people than you in the whole realm.

Hilary – I can't wait to watch you follow in Lainey's footsteps and become a color war captain one day. I truly believe that you're going to make it big here – you are such a camp person inside and out. You are the kind of camper that makes being a counselor so rewarding.

Mia – Watching you mature this summer was so rewarding. I can already tell that you're going to grow into an amazing young woman. Always remember how special you are and that camp is the right place for you. I can't wait to watch you lead girls camp one summer.

Morgan – Remember when you almost left at 2 weeks? I couldn't have been happier when you decided to stay. You took The Realm by storm and not just because of your older sisters. I hope that you will always look back on your Bow summer and remember what a strong 11 year old you were.

Lily Collier – It's hard to believe that this was only your second year. You have the respect of the entire group. You lead from behind, never drawing attention to yourself, which is incredible at such a young age. I can't wait to hangout in Cleveland.

Lily Drye – You have a magnetic personality that draws everyone towards you. You're not worried about what others think which is extremely admirable. You shine on stage during our dance, which was so fun to watch. I can't wait to watch you continue to make your mark on The Realm.

Olivia Ginsberg – Even though you're the baby of the group you are wise beyond your years. You have the respect of your peers without involving yourself in unnecessary drama. You are the funniest 11 year old I've ever met and spending time with you instantly brought a smile to my face. Never ever change.

Olivia Goldman – From day one it was clear that camp means the world to you and that you are here for all of the right reasons. You leave everything you have on the sports fields while strengthening your friendships in the bunk with every girl in the group. Your ability to be self-aware is remarkable and makes you extremely easy to talk to and rely on. I hope that you never lose your love for camp because I'm counting on coming back in five years from now and watching you lead The Realm.

Ella – Your love for camp shows in everything you do. Your determination was evident by the countless hours you put into perfecting the Boss dance. It's clear that you have been to camp forever and I know you'll continue sharing your love for camp with the rest of the group.

Lia – You always lend a helping hand in everything, from cleaning the tables in the dining hall to helping other people make their beds. I really appreciated your help all summer and I know the whole group did also. I'm glad you stayed for Green & White this summer because you killed it.

Julia – You don't have a mean bone in your body. Your positive attitude was always greatly appreciated. You made the best of everything and never complained. Never lose your smile.

Hanna – Your contagious laugh lights up the room. I was also so impressed with your acting and singing talent. Your dedication to your performances is apparent and is awesome to watch. Camp is a place that allows you to be whoever you want to be. Take advantage of this and keep coming back.

Helen – I know you were very nervous coming into the summer but once you jumped into the group you never looked back. I couldn't have been prouder of you for developing such a strong sense of independence and branching out. I can't wait to see your smiling face back in The Realm next summer, and hopefully here for the whole summer.

Elizabeth – You are one of the most caring girls I have ever met. You put others' needs first which is remarkable at such a young age. I can clearly see how much you love this place so keep coming back for the whole summer! I'm excited to watch you grow up here.

Regina – I'm so happy you tried out camp this summer. You immediately fit in and brought a new energy to the group. You killed it during Green & White, and watching you dance on stage was awesome.

Maddy – I couldn't have been happier when you decided to stay for seven weeks. We missed you so much while you were gone. It was clear that you made an impact on the group in just the first two weeks of camp as the group attacked you when you returned. You did a great job branching out this summer.

BOWS

Sydney – You are a terrific leader. You use your power for good and always act fairly and with integrity. It was such a pleasure to be your counselor. I can't wait to watch you be a Scribe, counselor and captain one day.

Cate – You had a transformative summer. I have never seen anyone change so much in 7 weeks like you had. You broke out of your shell and made The Realm your own. You are hilarious without even realizing it. I can't wait to watch you grow up at camp. I'm so happy you decided to stay for seven weeks, I think it definitely paid off.

Ava – You were a different kid when you got to camp this summer. It was clear from the beginning that you wanted to change and you did. I loved watching your transformation and couldn't have been prouder of you. You are beyond hilarious, but know when to cut it out and calm down.

Alana – It took you no time to fit right back into the group when you arrived. You broke out of your shell immediately. It's clear that you understand camp and that camp means something to you. Keep coming back.

Maggie – I couldn't have been prouder of you for how quickly you fit into the group. You made friends instantly. I loved how unafraid you were to be yourself. I hope that you keep coming back and stay for seven weeks next year.

Grace – When you arrived this summer you did not seem overwhelmed at all which speaks to how easy going and carefree you are. You jumped right into the group and let yourself get right into camp. I can't wait to watch you grow up in The Realm.

To my staff – I couldn't have done it without you guys. Between the late nights and early morning wakeups you guys had my back every step of the way. I couldn't have asked for a more hardworking, cohesive, and fun team. I hope that you will all be back next summer and that I have the privilege to work with you in some capacity in the future.

Bows 2016 – Thank you for an unbelievable summer. You girls have such amazing energy and love for camp. I can't wait to watch you grow into the amazing leaders of girls camp I know you will be.

After 5 long days filled with all kind of sports and competition, I think you were all happy to come back together as a group. Congratulations Paranormal Green on your well-deserved win!

As the summer comes to an end, I am struggling to find the words to properly wrap this up, when I simply don't want to. You girls have given me the best two summers any counselor could ask for. When they told me I was going to be your GL in pre camp, I was so happy because I knew that it was meant to be. You are my quilldren and I can't wait to come back for years to come and see you grow up, take over girl's camp, become counselors then group leaders and one day, color war captains. Just know that I will always be here for you no matter what, I'll have your back, be your shoulder to cry on and your biggest supporter. I love you all from the stars on the quad and back.

Noa – Although you are very quiet, you had a big presence in the group. You were always there to listen to your friends and help them out when they needed it. You never complained and were such a happy person all the time. Come back next summer!

Andrea – You are absolutely nuts and it's awesome! You are always full of energy and love to share all of your stories with the group. Camp needs that kind of energy and so does this group. Keep on being you!

Tyler – Although you live so far, it does not even make a difference. You just get camp and you understand the people here. People flock to you and love being around you. Keep coming back, no matter what!

Lorenza – I am so proud to be able to have witnessed how much you have grown as a person over the past two years. You have really come out of your shell and are a leader in this group. Your English has improved incredibly and everybody loves your stories at circle time. Keep coming back so you can be the first Italian group leader!

Case – You are such a kid at heart and you will always be! This group feeds off of your energy and constant positivity. You are amazing and every group should have someone exactly like you. I can't wait to see what the future holds for you.

Jess – No matter what, you are always so calm and collected. You are incredibly mature and love to just go with the flow. I am so happy that I had the chance to spend time with you are your family during visiting day! Keep coming back.

Ellie C. – You are such a sweet and caring person. It was incredible to see how well you integrated into the group. I am so proud of you for trying every activity, even when you were nervous. Congratulations on scoring that goal in soccer!

Ellie F. – Hudugey! Since you arrived, you have made a huge impact on not only your group but also camp. You have the biggest smile and love to laugh, people just love to be around you. You are definitely a camp person. Please come back for longer next summer!

Jemma – I always think back to that one day when you were walking around with a crazy fever, feeling absolutely horrible and didn't say a word. That is just who you are. I have never heard you complain once and I don't think I ever will. You are the easiest person to have in this group and I am so happy you decided to live out the full camp experience and stay until the end. See you in New York!

Carys – Clarice, you drive me crazy but I love it. You have definitely established yourself in this group and I have no doubt in my mind I will see you back at camp for years to come. I am amazed every time you come up to me and tell you have finished another book. Please give your parents an easier time and actually get out of bed in the morning!!

Grace M. – You are the most calm and collected person I know. No matter what, you are always participating and never complaining. You are a role model for every girl in camp. We will miss you the rest of the summer, come back longer next year!

Rawan – Even though you were miles away from Lebanon, you still managed to make camp your second home. You are incredibly smart and I loved practicing French and English with you. You are such a caring person and it shows, especially when you would watch out for the younger girls in the group.

Cass – It is no shock to me that you would find your way here so easily. You are just that type of easy-going, laid back person and it's awesome. I love seeing how much you have learned in such a short period of time while still getting excited to experience all the new things camp has to offer. Next summer come for longer!

Amber – Within 2 minutes of arriving at camp, the group whisked you away to the cabin and it seemed like you had already been here all summer. You love to try new things and that is what camp is all about. See you next year!

Laurel – Your paper plate says it all, you will be the next J.K. Rowling, I'm sure of it. I have no doubt in my mind that you will be incredibly successful in your future. Segal – I can't believe it took this long to discover the real you, but I am so happy I did. Your little shrieking voice and interesting story telling are only two of your many interesting talents. You proved yourself this summer and I am so proud to be able to have witnessed that.

Shafe – Lil, it is incredible how much you care for everyone around you. I have never met someone so young who understands the meaning of camp like you do. You know how much camp has to offer, and you make everyone else a better person by being around them. I have no doubt in my mind that you will own camp one day.

Camille – You never fail to make me laugh. I love your positive attitude and your love for camp is so clear. I want you to know how vital you are to this group; they need you as much as you need them. Keep coming back!

Rosie – You are absolutely nuts. There is no doubt that every single person in this cabin adores you and strives to be like you. You are loud and funny but at the same time know when to be calm and serious, most of the time. I admire your athleticism and love for camp. Hope to see you abroad soon and if not, right back here for many years to come.

Daisy – You are not the type of person that let's other people bring you down and I love that about you. It really amazes me that someone your age can so easily take ownership of their mistakes while still managing to solve other problems at the same time. You are a force to be reckoned with and I know you will be here forever. Can't wait to see you running this place someday.

Gia – It isn't easy to come into a tight knit group and immediately form your own relationships with each person, but that's exactly what you did. You are always so happy and carefree and it made me look forward to seeing your smiling face every morning.

Your inclusive nature has allowed you to form a special bond with each person in your group. Thank you for giving the best hugs with the greatest smile!

Charlotte – Charbar, you are my little bebe. Everyone loves being around you and that is no surprise. You have the best attitude towards camp and love it for what it is. There are very few people that know how to really listen and you are one of them, people aspire to be like you. I know you will be here forever and I can't wait to watch you grow up.

Jill – I don't think there is anyone in this world that can give a better pep talk than you. I know that if I asked anybody in the group they would say that you have the best sportsmanship by far. You are so fun, loving and sporty, the perfect combination for camp, especially Green & White. Can't wait to see you lead girl's camp some day.

Thalita – I loved coming to tennis and seeing your smiling face every day. You were such a pleasure to have on staff and I wish we could have spent more time together. Please come back next year, The Realm needs kind people like you!

India – Even though you spend so much time in the Craft Shack, I felt like we made it a point to become close and that made me so happy. You are one of the most talented people I know and I loved working on the flag with you during Green & White. Come back next year!

Catriona – When I found out you were back at camp, I hoped that there would be a way we could somehow be put on staff together again this year. Surprised but overjoyed, it happened and I could not thank you enough. No matter what time or where, you were always there to lend a hand and support me. I look up to you and love how you are literally a child in a grown up body. Can't wait to hang out more next summer. Please keep in touch!

Maia – From the moment I got to camp I knew I needed you by my side. When it all worked out, I couldn't even believe it was true. Together again, we took on this amazing group of girls and had another incredible summer. I could not have done this without you. I love you.

Maren – From jamming out at snack and making our kids leg dab to our late night talks and interesting adventures, I could not imagine this summer without you by my side. You are my partner in crime and the person I could rely on no matter what. We just click and I can't wait to come back and have this place as the home base of our friendship forever. Love you from the stars on the quad and back.

Izzy – From Jesters to staff, I can't believe how far we've come. The second I found out we'd be together, I knew that this summer would be great. It felt like we were reliving our camper years and I can't thank you enough for everything you have done. Can't wait to be group leaders together next summer. Love ya.

To my quilldren...

Take advantage of every second you have left here because before you know it, you will be right where I am. Participate in every activity, jump off the tower as many times as you can, be in the talent show, one bite dessert, do the island swim, dance with Vicky and find the big dipper every night. Camp needs every single one of you and all of you need camp. Remember, the bigger the dance move, the greater the experience.

Remember the first day of camp…The summer opened with 22 girls, nine staff members, and two beautiful bunks. We spent the first night on a treasure hunt that led to playing rock, paper, scissors hype team and eating s'mores cooked over the fire that almost burned down all of camp. We learned that Felicity's birth name is Kate and that your favorite staff of all time was your Tumbler staff. On our stroll back we passed the senior waterfront and checked out the new inflatables, which would become a favorite addition to camp a few days later.

Remember the first week…Jessie's birthday was the ideal way to start off the summer. HBD Jessie became the catch phrase of the day and we enjoyed our pizza picnic on the beach, cookie cake, and Cozy Corner. The birthdays and delicious treats continued three days later with Claire's birthday. During all of these festivities, we learned that we are not only excellent softball players but also football pros with the help of Woody's coaching. We had a spontaneous tubing period where we loaded every boat up with all the Arrows and tubed.

Remember Millie's birthday…She rocked the flower crown all day and enjoyed her freeze dried mangos. You guys killed the lip sync choreography but had to edit it a little to make it performance appropriate. We had a close game of Gaga against the Lancers where they just barely beat us. Lili took a bit of a tumble out of the pit, but shook it off like a champ. I'll never forget you all returning from the scavenger hunt with bags of raw meat. That alone made me know that you were all the perfect group for me. Shout out to Yensi for humoring our weird humor and desire to win scav hunts.

Remember the Arrow and Bard cookout while junior camp went to the Mainer's game…All the double cheeseburgers with toasted buns, grilled cheese, grilled oreos, and sweet tunes to keep up the good vibes. Then we had a killer backwards scav hunt where you found some great boogers to present as the last item. Pretty sure Palmer saw you guys pick your nose. Also pretty sure you guys were head catch masters by the end of the summer thanks to our soccer periods filled with shady hang outs and Palmer interrogations.

Remember waking up to Christmas carols and my red and green outfit…You were confused about why Christmas was happening in July, but didn't question it when there were munchkins and a marina trip. DJ Woody challenged you to sink the canoe, but we were too excited about the holiday to use our problem solving skills. The tree decorating competition was full of creativity, and in the end, the fireplace won over Chuck's heart. Unfortunately it never snowed, but it was still one of the best Christmases to have ever happened.

Remember going to the Mainers' game. We rolled up in vans because we got it like that. Woody was disappointed with Vicky's DJ skills, but we got him his Motown and everything worked out in the end. We spent some quality time learning about the great American past time of baseball while munching on snacks all evening long. We had beach day later that week and stuffed ourselves equally full of snacks. This time we enjoyed the bus ride, sang some hey lodies, You all put in some good water time despite the freezing cold temperature. Also, shout out to whoever ate all of Vicky's clam strips. The thunder filled cookout when we got back to camp was both dangerous and exciting. I'm glad you all stayed out of the shower.

Remember how campfires were a staple of the summer…The small cookout lighter proved to be enough with some good kindling and a nice fire pit. We sat at the ODT and went through the remember whens and decided a late night swim was in order. Later we had another glorious campfire post greasy watermelon, or should we say oily honeydew? The drowning during the game was made up for with s'mores.

Remember PVD…We showed off our Gaga, basketball, shooting, and tennis skills for the parents. Tennis got cut short thanks to the downpour, but Millie and her dad stuck through it and killed it on the courts through the steam. Then we filled the candy trunk (which was mysteriously empty after Green & White) and said goodbye to the four weekers the next morning.

Remember excursion…We rolled up to Canobie Lake Park and you guys went on all the "fun" rides before our trip to Walmart. The snacks were on point after that trip. We arrived at Exeter Elms Campground and had a secluded area to ourselves to be as loud as we pleased. The bathrooms were a little far, but who needs bathrooms when you're camping. Our beautiful fire the first night with a delicious dinner…at Subway…because the fire wouldn't burn. We still love Hummus though. Then we watched Ghost Busters with the sweetest reclining chairs of all time. The next morning we woke up after our beautiful rest on the forest floor and made our way to SkyZone where Emily met us. The trampolines helped you work on your gymnastics skills. Then we had some Five Guys for lunch because Arrows just don't do McDonalds. We had a few extra fries, but I think we demolished almost every bite of food. Then we spent the afternoon bowling, laser tagging, and arcading to work up an appetite for Flatbread followed by ice cream. We really occupied that Oceanside alley way. The next morning we wandered Portsmouth, got some Starbucks and did some shopping, and then got to the best part of excursion: Saco River. Canoes were pretty lit and you all have incredible arm strength.

ARROWS

Remember Green & White…Caroline and Sloane led the Great Paranormal Green and Elisabeth and Claire led the Mighty White Tribe. I wish I could've seen more of the incredible activities you all participated in, but I heard the sportsmanship and effort were 110%. So proud of all of you for contributing to one of the greatest wars of all time. You all killed it in the talent show and sang your hearts out on song night. Win or lose, the group as a whole had a victory after five intense days of competition.

Remember when Grace A. was not playing volleyball, Claire made it through a day without a tennis lesson, Elisabeth dissed everybody, Sloane wasn't thriving in soccer, Jasmine wasn't asking questions, Sarah hated camping out, Rosa sugar coated things, Madeleine learned the talent show dance, Millie didn't want to go to the orthodontist, Stella was pale, Berrett had a bad attitude, Eleonore wasn't smiling, Mackenzie didn't slay in Glee, Ines and Carlota slept alone, Grace M. was quiet, Avery didn't know what was Gucci, Maddie wasn't acting like Cari, Katherine wasn't rocking Tilly's apparel, Kaiya wasn't at crafts, Nina couldn't reason her way through anything, Caroline had a bad vocabulary, Emily ran everywhere, Lili hated all activities, Maggie lost to Jack, Riley wasn't making string bracelets, Felicity didn't want quad time, and Jessie didn't have the best French braids…WE DON'T!

Grace Anci – Nobody would know that you were new this summer as you integrated into the group and into camp so quickly. You are genuinely kind to each person in the group as well as each staff member, and it made spending time with you such a pleasure.

Claire Bloom – As someone who was a younger sister at camp, I want you to realize how much older sisters mean. You are a role model and go to person for two members of girls camp. Keep up the great leadership and hopefully they will turn out just like you.

Elisabeth Charney – I've said it before, but I am so glad that all the time we spent together talking about homesickness brought us so close. You always knew that you would make it through the bits of sadness, and only strong and mature people can recognize that.

Sloane Chestler – You always sought out a way to improve the group dynamic. Your vocalness at group meetings was necessary to help bring the group towards becoming one united front.

Jasmine Collier – Your questions show how much you care about every moment spent at camp. You wonder what's next in hope of it being the best thing possible and that is so respectable.

Rosa DeSario – You are so hilariously honest. Nobody could try to convince you that Senior Waterfront was a good evening activity. Despite your honesty, you still went into every activity ready to play. World cup partners forever.

Madeleine Enger – The Arrows love you as much as you love tennis. You are always willing to try a new activity knowing that you could discover something new that you will love. Your honesty was both refreshing and appreciated by all, and your smile is so contagious.

Millie Greenblatt – You have an energy like no other. I cannot wait to see you grow up and use that energy to lead girls camp one day. Always remember that your energy can help bring out the same spark in other people and help make the group more powerful.

Stella Grynberg – You are the better twin. Though you only stayed two weeks, you made a serious impact on this group with your strong leadership and sweet personality. Camp only gets better as the summer goes on, and I hope that you can stay longer next summer!

Berrett Huntsman – You are the most considerate person in camp. You always want to make the day better for everyone around you, whether it be helping them with their job or seeing if they're feeling their best. Your compassion impresses everyone around you.

Eleonore Law – I loved walking into the bunk at night and seeing you hanging out with both new and older campers. You are genuinely kind and it makes everyone feel welcome in your presence.

Mackenzie Leary – You are such a strong girl. An aura of confidence and independence surrounds you and with that you stand out. The group can learn from your ability to march to the beat of your own drum. Keep it up.

Ines Lopez Francos – The group thrived thanks to your hilarity. You fit in so well and quickly, and were the only person who shared my desire to sleep at the outpost. I hope that you get to stay longer next summer.

Carlota Munos-Rojas – You are the sweetest girl with the sweetest voice. Whenever we neded a laugh, we could go to you to brighten our day. Everyone was amazed that you and Ins weren't close before this summer, but quickly you can make close friends is a testament to your sweet personality.

ARROWS

Grace Malley – I have never seen somebody smile as much as you. You always enjoyed every activity and figured out a way to draw others into it. Whether it was being absolutely silly or absolutely dedicated to the sport, you did what you could to make it great for everyone.

Avery Marzen – Two weeks was not long enough! You settled in so quickly. It was incred. You might've meant to go to the other Robin Hood, but I think you ended up in the right place at the end of the day.

Maddie Newman – You are a little Cari with your charming honesty. You love camp so much and I know you will be here for so many summers to come making Girls' Camp the best it can be.

Katherine Overby – I loved all your stories of camps past and present. You taught us all about Tilly's, and brought a good dose of the west coast to the group.

Kaiya Pandit – From the moment you stepped into camp, it seemed like you had been here the whole summer. You were so helpful and kind, and we cannot wait for you to return to The Realm for longer!

Nina Perlmutter – Nuttermutter. You aren't the loudest person in the group, but you still speak your mind when you feel something needs to be said. The group will grow stronger and stronger each summer thanks to your voice.

Caroline Press – You are an integral part of this group who continues to reach out to others to make sure that people feel as included as they can. Your constant concern for others shows how much you care about the group, and you should never let that go away.

Emily Raizen – Despite spending many nights in the infirm, you always had a positivity radiating from you. In your time apart from the group, you were greatly missed. I cannot wait to see you next summer killing it as per usual.

Lili Rafanelli-Gonzalez – Seeing you so happy at camp made it clear that you found a second home at Robin Hood. You were excited for every activity and set a great example for all to follow.

Maggie Shanahan – You really have a kind heart, and everybody knows it. Even though it's only your second summer, it feels like you've been here since this group began. Don't underestimate the effect of the small things you do to make others happy.

Riley Thompson – Camp is a place where you get to be independent and be your best self. I love watching you take the initiative as a leader both for returning and new campers. Continue to reach out to new members of the group to help everyone else get to know them.

Felicity Wood – In your brief absence, The Realm missed you so much and you missed it too. The fact that you went all the way to Colorado and back to return for the end of the summer shows how much you need this place.

Jessie Zweifler – You are friends with every person in this group, which is so important and so rare as an arrow. Keep leading by example and soon everyone will follow in your footsteps to create a unified group of best friends.

Arrows of 2016...

You are a hysterical and amazing group of girls who will only get better and better with time. I'm so glad I got to spend my last summer with all of you because it made it the best one yet. Though Arrow summer is notorious for its bumps in the road, I think you all listened to each other's feelings with compassion and sought to become closer with the entire group. Thank you for working to become the beset group you can be through thick and thin.

I love you all endlessly.

Keep coming back, camp needs more people like you.

Claire – Or should I say Cluuuur? I feel like this summer you really came out of your comfort zone. You know how to make everyone in the group crack up at just the right time. You are so sweet, friendly and athletic and over all, an amazing camper!

Serena – You are one of the best friends I have ever seen. You are so selfless and do so much for other people no matter what the conditions are. Everybody appreciates you so much even if you may not see it. You are so determined and hardworking and have such a bright future ahead of you. Keep smiling and keep your head up!

Siena – Your love for camp shows in everything you do, from choreographing the Green & White talent show to hyping up evening activities. It was a pleasure getting to know you and your vibrant personality this summer.

Nyla – I know you hear this time after time, but you are a natural leader of this group. People are drawn to your enthusiastic sense of humour. You make every situation a Remember When moment. I know the real world may be exciting and all, but don't forget about camp as you get older! It truly is the best place on Earth.

Livy – You are such an amazing role model for both of your brothers and it shows every day. You really know how to act in any situation- from an intense volleyball game to a sad friend to trying to make a counselor laugh, you always know exactly what to say. I can't wait to see the incredible person that you become over the next few years!

Lily – People are naturally drawn to your personality. You are so mature and have a really good sense of what's going on. You are so fun to be around. I hope that you keep appreciating camp for what it is and remember that.

Shaina – You are the strongest 14 year old girl I have ever met. No matter what happens in your life, you are always smiling and making the most of your time at camp. I'm so thankful for the friendship that we formed and I know that you always have my back. Thank you for being so strong and such a positive role model for the group. Keep doing you.

Paige – Paje the group leader! Between talking to younger campers and helping sort mail, it's clear how much you care about camp. You truly want the best for everybody that goes here. You are always there if anybody in the group needs a hug and are such a good, steady friend. Good luck in Nashville – can't wait to see you next summer!

Dina – I don't think I've ever met such an outgoing person. Everything you do, you do with so much enthusiasm and positivity. You are such a strong person and always do the right thing, no matter what it takes. Everybody in the group appreciates you and all that you bring to the table!

BARDS

Molly – I honestly can't think of any word to describe you better than lovely. You are so fun to be around and so nice to everybody in the group. I know that I can count on you for anything, no matter what it is. It made me sad when you were sad the last few days of camp, but also made me happy to see how much camp means to you. You have a long camp career ahead of you!

Maddie – Hiiiiii Maaaaddie! You are such a camp character within this group from your weird introductions to you calling out people for not being on benches. You care so much about the group dynamic and what's best for camp. You've truly grown up so much since you were a little munchkin living in the Natty Shack and I'm so thankful we got a chance to be close this summer.

Kate – By the time you're reading this I hope your bruises have healed. I'm so happy I got to know you this summer and hope we keep in touch even though I'm not archery staff. You are incredibly mature and know how to talk to people of any age. You have a hilarious personality that can make any walk back to the bunk a conversation to remember.

Claudia – I'm so happy how camp has become a haven for you and a place for you to truly be yourself. You have everything going for you from your incredible singing voice to your strong presence in sports to your shoulder for anyone to cry on. You are so kind and genuine to everybody in the group and camp needs more people like you!

Jordan – The voice of an angel! You truly hit the ground running the first day of camp and never looked back. You are so confident and friendly that fitting into this group was not an issue for you. You completed the Bard puzzle and I can't wait to see you rocking the talent show in years to come!

Billi – There's nothing staff appreciates more than campers who appreciate camp. Between your family ties to your personal experience here, you understand everything that camp has to offer and what it means to be here. I can't thank you enough for helping to make every second of this summer worthwhile. I want you to know how much you belong at camp and how great of a staff member you will make one day!

Sam – It was such a pleasure being your counselor. You fit in so well with the group and they were all so excited for your arrival. Keep coming back and being your loud, crazy self! I hope next summer you're able to stay longer.

Emily – I love how much you love camp. Between swimming, playing cards and hanging out with the group, camp is truly your happy place. Watching you get into Green & White was so amazing and I hope that feisty side of you continues to come out next summer!

Ava – For being with the group for such a short period of time, you made such an impact! You are so sweet and independent. I love that you love camp enough to come from overseas and want you to know how much you mean to the group!

Olivia – I am so amazed at how polite a 14-year-old girl can be! You are so sincere and kind and genuinely love camp. You are here to have fun and you did just that! Thank you for being such an amazing camper.

Leah – You are a key component to this group. You bring the smiles, the laughs and the energy. The Bards would not be the same without you. I love how intense you get in sports and how you truly give everything your all.

O – Between being a competitive athlete to a leader of this group, I don't think there's anything you can't do. I know it was hard to miss some of the weekends of camp, but you didn't let that show and it made you make the most of your time that you did have here.

Cece – You are one of the most unique people I have ever met. You are so caring, selfless, smart and humble. You added so much to the group this summer and I hope you continue to be louder and louder. Girls camp needs more voices like yours! I know that your transition to high school will be amazing and hope that you still find time for camp.

Ruby – You have no idea how happy I am that you decided to come back this summer. You are low key/high key one of the funniest people in the group. It is so amazing to see how much your little sister looks up to you and how one day, it'll be all of junior camp. Camp is the best place in the world and I hope you keep coming back.

Casey – What a treat it was for you to join the Bards the second half of the summer! You are so nice and enjoy all of the camp activities! I hope you can stay longer next summer.

Izzy – Camp is in your blood and it shows in everything you do. You breathe for camp and understand how unique a place like this is. I've known you for six years now and am so happy to see the person you're becoming. Keep avoiding the infirm and giving periods your all – cherish the time you have left!

Bards of 2016, Scribes of 2018 –

I cannot put into words how memorable you made my last summer and I am sending an endless thank you your way. Each and every one of you brings something different, yet valuable to the table. It is comforting knowing that you guys will be here leading The Realm when I know I can't be. I'm so proud of the group you've become. You are so mature and well balanced that you know when to be nice, quiet, competitive, or silly. Keep liking @bards2016 instagram posts, keep making each other laugh, keep being a presence on camp, and most importantly, keep coming back.

SHIRES

Peace up, Shi town…it's time to put down the Beez, stop making daddy jokes, listen to the sound of my phone connecting to the Bluetooth speakers and get ready to relive the best summer of your lives!!!

Remember when the Shires came in hot… with Lavinia and Angie arriving first and everyone else slowly filling in. Gradually Siberia transformed into the cozy, crammed, and rarely clean home it is now, full of broken beds and backwards dabs. Our first EA at the ODT set the tone for the summer, with laughter and stories and candy. We owned The Realm on #minionmonday and demonstrated our talents for dressing up again during our X-rated fashion show on GCF and Brittany Snow day. Remember when we swam our 16 with the Tumblers and Jesters? Probably the most swimming we'd done in years but at least it prepared us for the new senior waterfront! The splash mat was certainly a hit, although we almost sunk it way too many times. Another new hit was ultimate Frisbee, that is until Maggie and Tessie went down the entire field going the wrong way. They were almost as athletic as Beatrice, Helga, and Brittany at tennis.

Remember when we sung Philadelphia Chickens nonstop because it was stuck in our heads and when we jammed to Hannah Montana constantly? Or when we planned a photo scav hunt but didn't realize you guys were too tech savvy to have cameras? At least you can always count on the shinsta to capture the moment. Remember when we looked great at the West End game because it was #frenchbraidfriday, when Dana made friends through the van windows, and we ran back in the pouring rain to find a soaking wet Scurran waiting for us? We never passed up an opportunity for an impromptu water fight by homerun either. Or a chance to kill Rosie in mafia.

Remember when Dana and Scurran had the most legendary act in make your GL laugh? Shires never disappoint, and your win made me proud. We also won at the outpost…getting Brie, dip, fajitas, s'mores, and chocolate covered strawberries. I think we can all agree that that Maddy's birthday was the most lit though, starting off with a morning pajama jump, taking us to Cozy and Walmart, and ending with a quinceañera that was turnt. So turnt, in fact, that it was mentioned in almost every rap on fight night. George may be the reigning champ in leg wrestling, but that didn't stop the Firefighters, Sexy 6, the Gray-tist, and Team Juan from writing fire lyrics that night. That same creativity (and weirdness) brought us success in the talent show; we were the best belly buttons and cows to ever grace the stage of the Chuck Illig Playhouse. However, I wouldn't call it graceful when Tara fell out of the gaga pit…wearing white sweatpants. She may have been down but we never had a down day, enjoying the Mainers' game, sunset boat rides, beach day, water balloon fights, Kanjam Xtreme, streaks to the ODT, and a classic DJ Wood social. We celebrated Marj Kozloff day in style wearing Robin Hood's trendiest rompers, and owned the lake during greasy watermelon oily honeydew, especially with the help of Herm the Worm and her kidnapping skills.

Remember when Hunger Games hit The Realm? Everyone fought valiantly for their districts, storming the cornucopia and even hiding out in the one-man tent. Moose hats, floaties, and wildebeests ran wild, but ultimately the odds were in George's favor. At least until we all got Cozy after, where some medium cones made everyone feel like a winner. Ice cream and yoga on the quad for RH Gives Back day couldn't even get you calm enough to wait for apparel, however. Remember when you revolted, running to the chalet and going on strike? The wait was worth it though; we looked fly dressed head to toe in Shire gear.

Remember when you guys were impossible to surprise? Guessing almost every schedule, EA, and, of course, the midnight McDonalds. I'm proud to say I pulled off a certain swimming one, though. PVD added great new members to the fam, bringing us Tello, Romantz, Jinsul, and Maria, alongside some much appreciated night-out dinners. The next few days were filled with many double waterfront periods (our fav), paper bag skits that you could "find on the internet," and lip-syncs that so perfectly represented your group. Soon after we were on our way to Boston, staying in style at what seemed like a 5 star hotel, shopping our way through Newbury Street, belting our HSM countoff in crowded public places (that Rosie always avoided, obviously), duck touring, sweating it up at Sky Zone, getting scared/turning up at Blue Man Group, and eating, always, everywhere. Late night shake shack easy mac and ice cream were the perfect end to our busy days, too. Remember when bad weather on our last day became a blessing because we got to see Nerve? Who even needs Odds Are anymore when you can play…snitches get stitches.

Pretty soon after excursion it was time for Green & White, and although the anticipation was in the air, none of you were even close to guessing the time of the break. However, that didn't stop us from chasing down airplanes and fire trucks at full speed. Maggie and Scurran led two incredible and intense teams, from tug to sandcastle building and everything in between. I don't know any other counselors who have to tell their kids to stop being so nice to each other during G&W, but I wouldn't trade breaking up your group jam sessions for anything. It was amazing to watch you all slay in the talent show, too. A good fight was fought, but ultimately the green team came out on top. Sorry guys, guess we can't all always be winners here at Robin Hood.

Lazy day only brought more shenanigans to the Shires. It wasn't until some time after being paged to the basketball court that you guys reemerged from your hiding spot at the grandstand, holding hands and singing, of course. You also created line walking, marching through the backs of bunks, listening to 12 Days of Christmas, and causing everyone to seriously question you. But hey, "if you can't beat em, join em!" We topped that night off with some sugar (per usual), doing Oscar's maze human sundaes and pajama jumping. The fun continued the next day with GL swap #flashtag and our awesome bucket list EA. I'm glad you guys (and the kitchen staff) made such great memories that night. Hopefully the Cozy didn't make you think that your idea was a good one, though.

Remember when we "slept" on the quad so we could raise the flag? When we climbed that really hard mountain? When we were on time for activities/flagpole? When we weren't roasting and yoking each other? When our bunk was super clean? When we were having a terrible summer… WE DON'T!!!!

Dawson – This group needs you – your constant smile, willingness to help, and ability to make everyone feel loved and cared for. You may not have been here that long but I feel like I have known you forever, proving just how friendly and compassionate you are. You better be back for longer next year because this group is not the same without you.

Maddy – You are one of the most easygoing, positive people I know. It is clear that you and camp are a perfect match, even if took you a little longer to find each other. You bring out the best in the other members of the group, and I could always count on you for athletic intensity, a carefree laugh, and a never-gets-old bungee jump story.

Slesh – Your random hyperness, rain boot organization, and everyday athleticism bring me joy. Somehow you manage to be both chill and energetic, which I love. It's crazy how we've gotten so much closer from one summer than from years at home and school, but I'm happy it happened. I hope you enjoyed watching everyone get dressed this summer!

Ari – It is clear that you care deeply about this camp and the people here. You always looked out for the other members of the group and wanted everyone to have a good time. Whether you were doing the accent or your weird lifting dance move where you look like you're in pain, you brought smiles and laughter to those around you. I've known you forever and you're like a little sis to me; love you, kid.

Meatloaf – If it wasn't obvious before, coming back only proved how much you love camp. You need it and it needs you. We owe you credit for bringing us the backwards dab, but, more importantly, for bringing jokes, creative song lyrics, and endless laughter. Your return was epic, but hopefully next year you won't even consider leaving and not coming back.

Teresa – There's a reason you've always had the solos; everyone loves you. You don't sweat the small stuff and you care about having fun and the people around you, and I honestly admire that. You had a great attitude no matter what we were doing, and always took the time to say thank you after. I was always amazed at how well you integrated into the group, but clearly it's because spending even a little time with you can brighten anyone's day.

Silvia – You came into an entirely new place filled with entirely new people and made it look easy. You were more than willing to try any activity and I literally don't remember a time when you weren't smiling. You were the perfect laidback, flexible, fun-loving addition to the group, and I hope you believe me when I say this place will now always be your home.

Lavi – I have never met someone so lively and high-spirited. You truly got invested in whatever you were doing, whether it was sailing, chatting with group mates, or explaining string theory. When you get excited about something you light up, and I loved watching that happen on a daily basis at camp. I have complete faith that you will win a Nobel Prize someday, so just don't forget us when you do.

Angi – You are so down to earth and easy to talk to. It always seemed like everyone could turn to you for anything, be it a little chat or advice and a person to vent to. You went with the flow and never complained, and the group always benefitted from that positivity. You rock.

Dana – I can't think of a single time where you had a bad attitude about anything. You embraced whatever we were doing and always helped get the group to, too. You love camp with all of your heart, and that is so apparent. It would be a major loss if we didn't have the Feed the Baby or the Wanna Go, but more importantly, we would be nothing without you, always giving 110% and just generally having a good time.

Lizzy – I don't know how or when the baby sister I have always known turned into the hilarious and mature girl you are now. You are funny, ridiculous, and insanely good at interpretive dance, but when the moment calls for it you can be so caring, sensitive, and serious. You are always inclusive and attentive to the needs of others, which is so amazing. I love you and will always be here for you.

Sadie – If I had known that I was going to be your GL when I saw you before camp I probably would've started laughing. I had no idea that you are the crazy, spirited, passionate person that you are, and getting to know that this summer has been so incredible. I could always rely on you for a helping hand or a hug, and there is no better description of your love for everything camp than your face when you had to leave it.

Herma – Oh me oh my, you say such absurd things but somehow they never fail to make me laugh. I don't know if you realize it, but the group looks up to you in so many ways. You may be low-key good at everything, but that's only because you are the type of person to put her all into whatever she does and never demand credit for it. Besides the fact that you always lose your shoes in my area, you are a stellar camper and all around stellar person and friend.

Jazzy – C'mon man. Whether you were acting like a tween or teaching Deutsche, you were able to get anyone in the group involved and laughing. You can always bring the mood up and I am so happy that you decided to not be super quiet this summer!! You are friendly to everyone, including those outside of the group, which just goes to show how magnetic your personality is. I'm glad you taught me what a neck was on the first day, it really came in handy this summer.

Tello – You quietly kill it at everything. Whether you were dancing or singing or doing an activity you always went all out, and I so appreciated that. I loved the moments when you really stepped out of your comfort zone or when you really opened up. You are so nice to every member of the group, and that does not go unnoticed. Better see you back here next year, your loud voice will be needed to lead some bomb cheers.

Alex – You are such an honest, loving, considerate member of the group. If anyone needed anything, whether it was advice, a hug, or an item of clothing, you never hesitated to help them get it. The times when you were full of smiles, dance moves, and having tons of fun were always the best to watch. This place will forever your home, so I hope you do everything you can to at least try and come back next summer.

Jinsul – You may be the most picked on, beaten up, harassed member of the group, but no one could take it better than you. I hope you believe me when I say it is all with love; the first half of the summer was definitely missing its GOAT. You make dancing, spud, and benches a little more fun and lively for everyone, and you are always there to support a friend when they need it or have an engaging, in depth conversation. Do everyone a favor and come back for full next year.

Sbutler – Family dinners and HB gatherings never brought us nearly as close as we are now, and I'm so grateful for that. Your giggle lights up my day, your awkward jokes give me life, and your love for sleep is something I can really relate to (but make sure you don't waste a minute doing it too much next summer). You succeed in being both chill and flexible and also comical and carefree, and tbhe group simply functions better with you in it. Also, you're really pretty.

Tara – I admire the fact that you are always willing to speak what's on your mind. It is so evident that camp and the girls mean the world to you. I could tell that you always took what I said to you to heart, and that meant so much to me. The girls know that they can always come to you with any problems they face. I know you will lead Scribe summer with compassion and dignity. Keep coming back for as long as you can because camp needs you.

Julie – When people think of camp you're one of the first people they think of. You embody all of the values that make camp special and you make everyone happy to be here. Your positive outlook on camp and on life in general is inspiring and the girls truly look up to you for that. Always remember you have camp to fall back on. Don't ever stop dancing, jumping off the tower, and making the most of your rours. Masamana!!

SHIRES

Rosie – Your enthusiasm for all things camp is infectious. There has yet to be a waterfront period where you haven't jumped in the water, or a home run period where you haven't tried your hardest to hit trees. Those are the moments when you shine and the entire group takes notice. You never waste a minute! Keep up your energy and you will be a force to be reckoned with as a Scribe and eventually on staff. You have what Girls' Camp needs.

Scurran – You are one of the most inclusive people I have ever met. The way you carry yourself is truly incredible and it is obvious to others that you make sure your time at camp never goes to waste. I admire the fact that you have a positive attitude about everything. Don't ever let anyone tell you that you can't accomplish things because you can achieve anything you put your heart too. Camp loves you and needs you at the helm next summer. P.S. thanks for getting rid of my ear pimple once and for all.

Maggie – No matter how bad your day is you always have the biggest smile on your face. I admire the fact that you try your hardest in anything and everything. The girls look up to you and respect the things you do. Not only do you love camp but you make everyone around you love camp. I know you will lead Girl's Camp next summer with your charismatic energy and positive attitude.

K Ham – You are one of those people that once you get going you are unstoppable. All it took was a good joke or conversation and you'd be smiling for hours. Even amidst the injuries, you had a "ready for anything" attitude and you didn't want to take a single minute at camp for granted, which is incredible. Hope to see you in the 216, you give great hugs and I'm craving one.

Maria – I think I speak for everyone when I say that you were quite a pleasant surprise in so many different ways. Not only are you incredibly laidback and fun, but you can also get intense, showcasing your athletic abilities. You blended right into the group straight from the first night, into Green & White, and beyond. It was a pleasure to see all that you had to offer!

Romantz – I am so glad I got to know you this summer. You are so easy to talk to, and I left every conversation we had with each other even more impressed than the last. You were always the chill, flexible person the group needed, and you always brought good vibes to the group. I hope to see you here for more than just the last three next summer because I loved every minute that I spent with you.

Claire – There is a coolness factor built into you that is so unique to who you are. Whether it's your sense of style or your overall always-at-ease personality, you are beautifully yourself. Many girls your age struggle to find who they are, but you do you with confidence and grace. You came into the summer a little late, but you fit in with the group like you've been here the whole time. Keep coming back, you'll make a great role model as you lead Girls' Camp next year.

Tessie – What a little ball of spunk you are! Between dancing to Copacabana on the Quad, singing to Alvin and the Chipmunks, or playing Kanjam Xtreme, you put your all into what you want to do. Your vibrant personality is enough to make anyone's day brighter or put a smile on even the grouchiest person's face. Never lose your enthusiasm for camp because it's what drives this place we call home.

George – You are one of the most remarkable girls I have ever met. You have such a presence in this group that truly makes a difference. The love you have for your friends flows through every move you make and it's amazing to watch. There is a genuine kindness within your heart that is so very apparent and so very cherished by everyone. Never lose that, because it's one of the many things that make you so special.

Mauldin – You were one of the first people to really make me feel like a part of your group, and I am so thankful for that. You are so funny and outgoing and the girls know they can always come to you when they are down and need to be picked up. Always know you have camp to take you away from life at home. Your affection for camp and for the group is truly incredible. Keep coming back for as long as you can because this place needs you and your spunk.

Shires – You have quite the reputation on camp, and going into this summer I had high expectations for you guys. You not only lived up to my expectations, but you exceeded them in every way possible. You have more energy and creativity than is imaginable, you find a way to add both comedy and compassion into everything you do, and your love for each other and for camp is unmatched. I consider every single one of you a genuine friend, and I hope you know that that relationship does not end this summer. I have absolutely no doubt in my mind that you will kill it next year as you take the lead; I just hope to see every one of you back up there. Keep coming back because Girls' Camp needs a group like you at the helm for years to come. I love you all infinitely more than I love my favorite tree, peach rings, and the song The General combined.

To my staff – I don't think I could have gotten past opening day if it weren't for you guys. Having you by my side brought me not only sanity but also more laughs than I could have ever imagined. I went into this summer with no clue about what I was getting myself into, but you guys never failed to give me the confidence and support that I needed. I love you all and expect to keep in touch throughout the year…until I see you again next summer when we are all on staff together again… lol jk…maybe. Also, thanks for being better dancers than me and making me look cool.

Alright Scribs, listen up closely...

Livita, put down the book. Lior, come back from the stables. Olive, stop staring at me like that. Elise, put down Mr. Pink. Soph, stop blasting Britney, or at least turn it down for a sec. Abby, please get dressed. Paulina, eyes off the Kindle. Gracie, wake up. Frida, you're an hour late, come back! Freddy, hold off on the facial treatments for a sec. Rach, Josh, whichever one you are, it's time for all of you to forget about your real world problems, square up, and reminisce on the summer of a lifetime.

Y'ALL READY FOR THIS?! Duh nuh nuh duh duh duh nuh nuh nuh nuh dun dun dun nunnuh nunnuh dun dun duh nunnuh nunnuh DUH NUNNUH NUNNUH DUNNUH HEY!! DUNNUH DUNNUH NUH NUNNUH HEY!!

Remember when Liv, Sophie and Gracie arrived on Wednesday night to get a taste of the precamp experience? I wouldn't leave square dancing for many things, but picking up my first girls of the summer was definitely worth it! Then you found out you also had Jan on your staff and got so excited that you woke up everyone in the infirm (sorry nurses). The rest of you showed up sporadically and everything fell into place. Lior came during lunch, Olive during basketball, and Paulina surprised us all after your first big night on duty! Remember leading your first campfire? With song sheets and a laid out plan, nothing could go wrong! And how about all those girls camp wishes? So sweet, I love that tradition…Remember hiking up Green Mountain with the Tumblers?! Abby's very first hike! Remember thinking it was gonna be super easy and then it just wasn't? Haha me too. Then remember when you all did that optional mountain trip to earn your 11,000 feet towards Katahdin? If that's not determination then I don't know what is. Poor Livita sprained her ankle, and Jan and I welcomed her to the "weak left ankle squad" with open arms. Remember when Olive learned what haddock was after she ordered it at Hooligans? And then we went to Zebs and Frida experienced fudge for the first time! Remember BSD?! HAPPY BRITTANY SNOW DAY! Please carry that tradition on for me. Remember the Scraxon pajama jump? You're welcome for all of your cover photos btw. Then Rachel and Elise showed up just in time for the West End game, BEAT WEST END!

Elise's first move was downing half a Nutella jar in one scoop, and I knew even though she missed a summer, nothing had really changed. Remember all those good Walmart pizzas? Remember running one of the best 4th of July carnivals ever? That thumb wrestling booth got a little intense. And what about admiring the fireworks later that night? Ooh, ahh, wow, neat, whoa, fierce, werk, yas…Remember when Fredrika showed up just in time for our big outing? When you guys all got so upset because the Saxons got to go the Red Sox game, just to later find out that you were all going to see the legend herself, GWEN STEFANI! Don't forget Eve! And then getting seat upgrades because we ain't no hollaback girls?

Remember the van ride to beach day? I can never thank Erin enough times for putting up with our nonsense. Remember how lit day 22 was? So lit. Remember when some of you earned eleven thousand feet and then proceeded to climb even more feet on Katahdin? Status update: RIP Diandre. Ima get the peeps that got my peeps.

Remember our super ~special~ yoga session the morning we got back? Remember when your parents came and bought you guys sick amounts of junk food, which you proceeded to finish before camp even ended.

Remember leading a rainy day Zumba class for all of girls camp? Remember Soph and Gracie's self-defense course? Sir, I'm gonna have to ask you to take a step back, SIR, I will scream.

PVD is over and then it's time for excursion. Remember seeing Secret Life of Pets at the drive in? Having an amazing dinner and scouting out "pizzas" throughout the trip. Remember when we went surfing through the muck in Cape Cod? Ma, I swear, I see a sea dog! Remember how when we got back, every time there was a small wave from a waterski boat, we screamed CAPE COD! Remember all the funky fresh people we saw in Provincetown?! I'll never forget the twins' enthusiasm at the Electrica/Elton John/ Barbara Streisand concert! WERK IT GURL!

SCRIBES

YAS! Even better than the actual concert was Olive's van concerts to Only. Or how about that swag van CD? Tracks 4, 10 and 12 were really on point.

Remember when we stargazed on the basketball court and ate our entire body weight in junk food? Remember when Green & White broke with Chuck and Dick on ATVs, an airplane, a firetruck and the judges on top of the sound stage? The White Tribe had the most intense five days versus the Paranormal Green. Remember when we did every evening activity in one night? How about when we did every daytime activity in one day…I am still scared of horses.

Remember when you guys stood up in front of girls camp and tried to put what camp means to you in a few short pages? You all spoke so beautifully, and that was agreed throughout all of girls camp. I want you guys to know that hearing all of you say you had the best summer ever truly made me feel complete.

Lior – It's hard to believe you took any time away from The Realm at all. You jumped right back into the swing of things, and the group would not have been the same without you. I hope you can make it back on staff because your positive energy, hard-working nature, and love for camp would make you an unbelievable counselor.

Liv – You've always had such a big and bright personality, and it truly is unique to anyone else's. You're loud and outgoing, but you also have a soft, sensitive side that I sometimes feel like only those super close to you get to see. It's been really awesome seeing that side of you. I hope you can make it back because your energy as a staff member would be killer, and any camper or counselor would be beyond lucky to have you on their staff.

Olive – The evolution of your view on camp this summer was unlike anything I've seen before. You went from wanting nothing to do with being a counselor, to thriving as an aid. You also went from dreading Green & White, to the point where you tried to leave before it broke, to truly embracing the intensity you experienced. You never hesitate to say what's on your mind, and whether you realize it or not, that is something special.

Elise – Although you missed a pivotal summer for your group, you managed to slide right back in with grace and ease. The group would not have been the same without your weirdness, and your ability to constantly keep everyone laughing. I know you have plans to do crazy cool things over the year and next summer, but I hope one day you make it back here. Some lucky group of girls is waiting to experience the fun insanity you always bring to the table.

Sophie – How can I express the importance of your passion for camp in just a few short sentences? It's so evident that every word you say, and every action you take, is for the best interest of your group, and camp as a whole. It's people like you who keep girls camp thriving summer after summer, and I know you are nowhere near finished with your camp journey. Even when things change, just continue to do what you do best; find the joy in everything that camp has to offer.

Abby – You really will always be our wild child. Thanks for always keeping things interesting in the bunk, at activities, and everywhere in between. I admire the fact that you joined the group at such a tough age, and you managed to become such a core group member by Scribe summer. You're passionate, and you give your full energy and commitment to everything you set your mind to. Never change.

Paulina – Your love for camp and the magic in the trees is undeniable. This group would not be the same without your constant smiles, laughs and hugs. I've never seen someone with a more positive attitude no matter what the circumstance is. You are independent, so strong, and beautiful inside and out, so don't let anyone ever tell you otherwise.

Gracie – You are possibly one of the coolest people I know. You have an effortless way of making everyone around you smile, and your youthful personality is contagious. Without lacking a certain sense of maturity, you manage to bring out the little kid in all of us.

Fridav – Let's talk about your personality, because there is so much to say about it! You are one of the sweetest, most wholehearted people that I know. I love how you come off so innocent, but secretly you have your wild side, and only the lucky ones get to see it. The Scribes were all so lucky to have you.

Freddy – You have the ability to light up any room you walk into with your smile. You are such a key member of the group, and that's because you're so reliable. You're such a great person to go to for solid life advice, a quick facial treatment, and a good time. I hope you keep coming back because you have what it takes to be such a successful counselor!

Rachel – You are a natural leader, and it's clear to see because your humor and confidence inspire those around you. I feel like I can talk to you about anything, and I'm sure anyone in this group would say the same. You somehow find the perfect balance between making light of any situation, and being the perfect shoulder to cry on. Please come back on staff, The Realm needs you.

Scribes 2016 – I had the best summer ever, and that would not have been the case without the constant laughs, singing and dancing in the dining hall, making every minute count, and everything else you girls gave me. Thank you for filling my summer with endless memories. I wouldn't change a thing. So much love.

Every summer, the Robin Hood community reflects on the importance of giving back and taking action to help those in need. This summer, we were incredibly fortunate to have decorated soldier Dan Nevins spend time with us for Robin Hood Gives Back Day. Dan embodies perseverance and strength. He captivated our camp – seriously, you could have heard a pin drop in the dining hall – with his personal accounts of war and advice on how to tackle life's hardships. TPJs and Tumblers through staff were locked in Dan's recounting of how he lost his legs in Iraq, lost fellow soldiers to war, rehabilitated and adjusted to his new body and mind, and made conscious decisions about living in the moment and appreciating what life has to offer. It was clear that Dan's story and outlook on life really resonated with us.

The following day, Dan kayaked during our island swim, greeting and congratulating every camper as they landed ashore on the island. There was a particular sense of pride among our swimmers that morning. After breakfast, Dan led our senior campers and then junior campers in yoga. He shared his experience with yoga and its ability to heal, focus, and strengthen. While some of our campers may have struggled a bit with the flexibility and balance aspects, everyone appreciated the opportunity to reflect and focus on living in the moment. Dan instilled an unbelievable aura of appreciation and positivity in our camp that day which is exactly what Robin Hood Gives Back is all about.

Needless to say, Dan's presence greatly affected The Realm. Inspired by Dan's speech and our time we spent with him, our campers (and staff) decided to write letters to soldiers expressing gratitude, appreciation, strength and love. We were floored by the unbelievably articulate, genuine, and encouraging letters our CRH family constructed.

For more information on Dan Nevins, we encourage you to visit his website www.dannevins.com as well as Wounded Warrior Project's site www.woundedwarriorproject.org.

EXCURSIONS

Our Junior Campers (TPJs, Tumblers, Squires, Jesters, Archers, Bows) enjoy a two day excursion, with their night spent cooking dinner and camping. Days were spent going to amusement parks (Storyland), waterparks and river adventures (Saco River, Funtown Splashtown), adventure parks (Monkey Trunks, Cranmore), movie theaters, bowling alleys, arcades, and an awesome teambuilding experience, Escape Room.

Our Middle Campers (Quills, Yeomen, Arrows, Lancers) get to spend three days and two nights out of camp. Quills and Yeomen enjoyed Attitash mountain adventures, Kahuna Laguna indoor water park, the movies, and the beach. Arrows and Lancers adventured on the Saco River, went bowling and explored Portsmouth. They also had a blast at Canobie Lake Park and Skyzone.

Bards and Friars are privileged to have the longest excursion, four days and three nights. This gives them plenty of time for exciting adventures and group bonding. One of the highlights of this excursion was white water rafting. Some other highlights included the Basketball Hall of Fame, Portland, Six Flags, the movies, paintballing, and New England exploring.

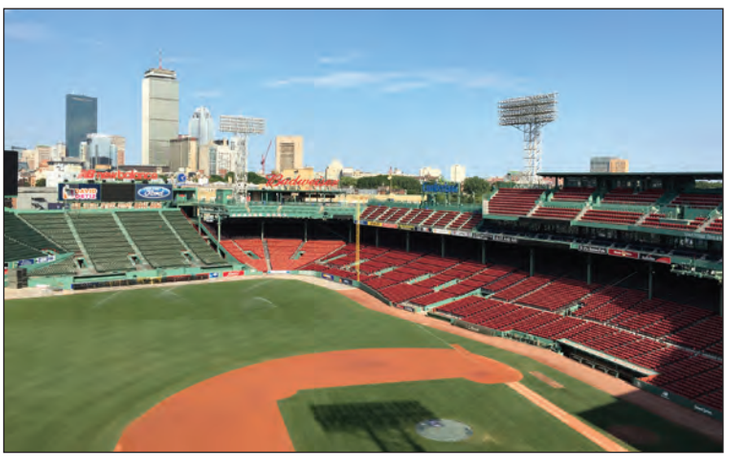

Shires and Foresters get to go to Boston for three days and two nights. They enjoyed Blue Man Group, Newbury Street, Skyzone, duck tours, Fenway Park and general city exploration.

Saxons and Scribes spend their final group excursion in Cape Cod. Beach time is a highlight, and they spent a fun morning surfing followed by a relaxing afternoon on the sand. They then got to see more of Cape Cod and explore Provincetown.

FOUNDER'S NIGHT

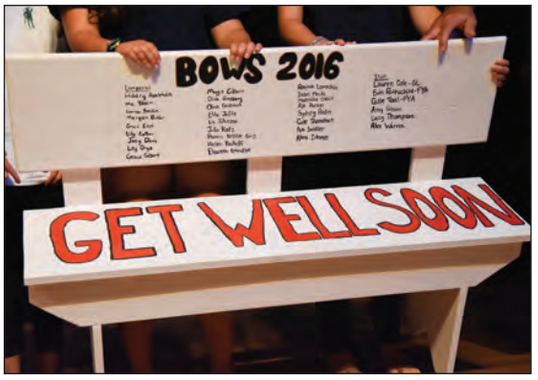

Robin Hood has always been steeped in tradition. One of our longest standing traditions is Founder's Night, a banquet and gift giving in honor of camp's founder, Andy Friedman's birthday. It is a night to give back to camp, when the Brass and Group Leaders serve dinner, and our 1st, 3rd, 5th, and 10th year campers (and staff) are honored. This Founder's Night was particularly familial, as it was the first night our camp had all been back in the dining hall together after a week of excursions. Not to mention, the Green & White anticipation was high. Some gift highlights included an Adirondack chair from the TPJs that towered over six feet and towel racks for Girls Camp courtesy of the Tumblers. It is always an important and favorite camp night spent sharing stories of Robin Hood history, honoring Andy Friedman, and reflecting on how thankful we are to have Robin Hood as our home.

CAMP ROBIN HOOD - GREEN AND WHITE

Don't Trust Me

Attention,
on camp stand by please
We've got a page coming out that will haunt all your dreams
We hear voices predicting victory
"The paranormal green will make history"

G-g-g-geed, she's large and in charge,
While feisty Meisty takes the field coaching hard.
Tell Flash and Jamie, their spear's not a cane
Scribe tribe is from eleven; pick a new name.

This war will haunt you. We knew
Green spirit would not fall through
Our teams too good to be true
We have the zuch
Paranormal green
Metaphysical dream
Our team resurrected Andy

Tribe leaders have been outdone
We know Marj scares everyone
Meister's not down to have fun
He wants to win
Paranormal green
Metaphysical dream
Our team resurrected Andy

Feathers on the top of your heads
Cultural appropriation of the reds.
While our spirit, a mysterious force
Harnessed it from a supernatural source

S-s-s-screams ring through The Realm
Echo in the forests where Andy's ghost dwells
And the best is, no one knows where we are.
Not even Dick, the green and white czar.

This war will haunt you. We knew
Green spirit would not fall through
Our teams too good to be true
We have the zuch
Paranormal green
Metaphysical dream
Our team resurrected Andy

Tribe leaders have been outdone
We know Marj scares everyone
Meister's not down to have fun
He wants to win
Paranormal green
Metaphysical dream
Our team resurrected Andy

JC: We are, we are the green
Terrorizing the white, at night while they sleep
JC+SC: We are, we are the green
Terrorizing the white, at night while they sleep
ALL: We are, we are the green
Terrorizing the white, at night while they sleep

This war will haunt you we knew
Green spirit would not fall through
Our teams too good to be true
We have the zuch
Paranormal green
Metaphysical dream
Our team resurrected Andy

Your reservations in flames
Green domination remains
We'll listen as Dick explains
We won the war
Paranormal green

And here comes the time where we tell you
How the magic around us began
Wish we could go back in time and thank Andy
For helping us to understand

We wish that the time wasn't passing
And you know that it goes by too fast
One second the stars shine above you
And our next look the dirt road goes past

We will dream of the smell of the pine trees
And we promise to never let go
Though the flames of the campfire dwindle
The embers of memories glow

And we can't fight the tears that are coming
When we're parting this place one more time
But sooner or later it's over
Though our visions of camp we'll rewind

And the time slowly slips through our fingers
In the blink of an eye it's all gone
Reaching out to hold onto our summers
Until reveille wakes us at dawn

We will dream of the smell of the pine trees
And we promise to never let go
Though the flames of the campfire dwindle
The embers of memories glow

Now we look at the faces around us
Knowing its time to pass it along
JC: We're ready to make our own memories
SC: And continue to sing Andy's song.

At ease 'cause we're finally home
At ease 'cause you're finally home
At ease 'cause we've all found our home.

Bohemian Rhapsody

Welcome to song night
It's down to white and green
Fought hard for five days
Then it's back to reality
Open your eyes
And look at our mighty team

Look at the captains, give green some sympathy
We've got Robert Flash, Jame Le-vine
They've got Marj, they've got Meist
Anyway the bean goes, didn't really matter to white, to Tribe…

Judges, just slayed the green
After Kyle's name was read,
Meister's face turned flaming red
Judges, staff had just begun
But Marj thought maybe Russia was more fun
Judges, ooo
Just take it from the white
When you see green at their cookout tomorrow
Join the Tribe, join the Tribe, to recover from your night five

I see a little silhouetto of a man
It's a ghost! It's a ghost! Paranormal activity!
Captain Flash is crying that was very frightening green!
JC girls: Tribe say WAY HO
Sr boys: Tribe say WAY HO
JC girls: Tribe say WAY HO
Sr boys: Tribe say WAY HO
ALL: Tribe say WAY HO ghost is gone

Kyle Meister: I'm on the white team,
bro doesn't love me
ALL: Pug's on the green team, so much for family
Sorry to both, but we could not rig the bean
Off to Fox Ridge we go, curfew's gotta go
Sr Girls: let it go…
Quad time's gotta go
Sr Girls: let me go…
Kozloff curse is woof
Sr Girls: sorry tho…
Paranormal what?
No, no, no, no, no, no, no
Green is evil, green is evil, paranormal has to go
The Tribe is good,
but a demon lives inside the green
The green
The greeeeeen

Not that sure if we call this night 6 or night 5
Either way white made it out of this war alive
Please judges, don't just favor your crushes
Tribe's gotta roll, let us have this one for CLE
Ooh yeah, ooh yeah
One thing really matters
We were the fun team
Sent the paranormal, right where they belong to Chalk City
Anyway the war goes…

The Great Escape

Airplanes and fire trucks

From TPJ to Scribe
Chant with pride

White is chalking green tonight

Flash is pumped for his first night five
Jamie's got two by her side

Loyal till we die

Give up the fight
It ends tonight
We are the mighty white
Green doesn't scare our Tribe
From TPJ to Scribe

Dreaming With a Broken Heart

When it settles down deep in your heart
Accepting it is the hardest part
You look around, take in the trees
And for a moment you can hardly breathe
Wondering is this really it?
Has my time come to an end?
But I know, that the magic's never gone

When you take that one last look around
And realize what you've really found
Maybe you can find your way
And those in here will still be okay
And you've done all that you could
Just as Andy said you should
Now it's time, to move on on on on on

I promise you, someday I'm coming back
I can't say when, but my heart's still attached
This place has given me all that I have
But for now, my time here has passed

Will you still remember me?
JC: Yes we will
Cause your dream will live on

When it settles down deep in your heart
Accepting it is the hardest part

GREEN & WHITE

Green 3,744 / White 3,660

THE TENSION WAS HIGH AND THE BETS WERE ON FOR WHEN THE 2016 GREEN & WHITE BREAK WOULD HAPPEN.

All of our groups returned from excursions on Sunday and our Founder's Night banquet was filled with energy. Would it be early Tuesday morning, as many campers anticipated? In the middle of afternoon activities on Monday afternoon, a distant sound was coming from above. Closer and closer the sound got, until finally in the sky, a plane became visible. It looked like an old propeller plane and there was something trailing behind it: CAMP ROBIN HOOD – Green & White! Then there were sirens coming from the camp road. A firetruck trailed by Chuck and Dick on an ATV came onto the scene. Chuck and Dick led everyone around camp and concluded in The Chuck Illig Playhouse. After a few moments of anticipation, the judges jumped up out of the soundstage and blasted confetti and streamers and balloons. DC and Woody emerged from the stage in their Green & White shirts and hats, and Green & White 2016 had officially begun!

Jamie Levine and Robert Flaschner led the White Tribe, while Marjorie Kozloff and Jake Meister led the Paranormal Green. We did things a little differently this summer, commencing the war with a junior camp tug of war. It was a great way to start up the Green & White momentum. We had perfect weather for our Swim Meet, Track Meet, Regatta, and final Tug of War. Our Talent Show showcased exceptional dramatic, musical, dance, and gymnastics performances by both teams.

The entire color war was extremely close, with Day 2 concluding with Green in the lead by only FOUR points! By the end of Day 4, White had edged out, ahead by 105 points. Ultimately, Paranormal Green won with a final score of 3,744 to 3,660.
